

The background of the entire image is a winter scene. It features a light blue sky with several white, stylized snowflakes of different shapes. Below the sky, there are dark green, snow-covered evergreen trees. In the foreground, there are patches of white snow on a dark ground. Two red birds, possibly cardinals, are the central focus. They are facing each other, with their heads tilted upwards and their beaks slightly open, as if they are about to sing or are in conversation. The bird on the left is perched on a snow patch, and the bird on the right is also on a snow patch. The overall mood is peaceful and wintry.
