Evidence-Based Programming for Older Adults Marcia G. Ory, Matthew Lee Smith, 2015-06-17 There is increased world wide concern about the impact of multiple chronic conditions especially among the rapidly aging population Simultaneously over the past decade there has been an emergence of state wide and national initiatives to reduce the burden of chronic conditions that draw upon the translation of evidence based programs EPB into community practice Yet little has been written about the national and international implementation dissemination and sustainability of such programs This Research Topic features articles about EBPs for older adults including a range of articles that focus on the infrastructure needed to widely disseminate EBP as well as individual participant impacts on physical mental and social aspects of health and well being Using a pragmatic research perspective this Research Topic will advance knowledge that aims to enhance practice inform policy and build systems of support and delivery in regard to the reach effectiveness adoption implementation and maintenance of evidence based interventions for older adults The focus is on knowledge transfer rather than knowledge generation but with a dual emphasis on the dissemination and sustainability of EBP that have been tested and shown effective as well as the adaptation of practice based interventions into evidence based programs This Research Topic draws upon grand scale efforts to deliver these programs and include both U S as well as international examples Commentaries discuss processes in the development and measurement of EBP and reflect perspectives from program developers and major national and regional funders of EBP as well as professionals and practitioners in the field The full length articles focus on four major programmatic areas 1 chronic disease self management programs 2 fall prevention programs 3 general wellness and physical activity programs and 4 mental health programs Additionally articles are included to discuss cross cutting issues related to building partnerships and the research infrastructure for the implementation evaluation and dissemination of evidence based programming The intent of this Research Topic is to enhance practice inform policy and build systems of support and delivery for EBP It is written for a diverse audience and contains practical implications and recommendations for introducing delivering and sustaining EBP in a multitude of settings Multifactorial balance assessment, falls prevention and rehabilitation Nattawan Utoomprurkporn, Marousa Pavlou, Dimitrios Kikidis, Christos Nikitas, 2025-10-13 Balance control is a complex process that is vulnerable to the effects of aging and cognitive decline as well as various neurological factors such as Parkinson's disease, Lewy body dementia, LBD and Frontotemporal dementia, FTD. These conditions affect different parts of the brain, leading to diverse symptoms and increasing the risk of falls, which coexist with multiple comorbidities including stroke, mild cognitive impairment, vestibular disorders, and long COVID-19. Recent studies have shown that both static and dynamic balance is impaired in individuals with mild cognitive impairment, MCI, and these impairments worsen under cognitive challenges such as multitasking. Impaired balance and dizziness are consistently identified as risk factors for falls, negatively impacting quality of life with significant physical, psychosocial, and healthcare-related consequences. Multimodal, multifaceted falls prevention programs targeting the specific needs of high-risk individuals are essential. However, there is a lack of access to falls specialist services around the globe, insufficient integrated clinician education, and a shortage of well-trained clinicians to provide individualized falls assessment and care. This is particularly crucial given the neurological complexities of conditions like Parkinson's, LBD, and FTD. Additionally, patient adherence to existing exercise programs is poor, with 70% dropping out early. Balance physiotherapy is a key intervention for falls prevention, and it is imperative to develop comprehensive, individualized multifactorial balance rehabilitation programs. Technology-based solutions can help address these issues by increasing accessibility and adherence, providing wider and easier home-based access to high-quality falls services and interventions.

The training of the memory, a paper Alice J. COOPER, 1881 Casebook of Traumatic Injury Prevention Richard Volpe, 2019-12-30 This casebook profiles exceptional traumatic injury prevention programs from all over the globe. Its detailed description and analysis employ a multi-stage process of identifying, evaluating, and casing effective prevention practices. The case studies reflect how legislative and regulatory information impact prevention efforts and provide insight into how national centers for injury prevention and control inform prevention practices on countrywide levels. The authors work with outcome-based research criteria to select and develop their comprehensive and contextually aware profiles of the programs. All included case studies follow the BRIO approach: Background, Resources, Implementation, and Outcome, a model designed to provide a consistent way of describing programs that have been evaluated and found to be exceptional practices. The scope of the Casebook ranges across: The challenge of traumatic injury prevention, Sports and recreation related traumatic injury prevention, Fall related traumatic injury prevention, Road traffic related traumatic injury prevention, Traumatic injury prevention within complex systems. In its recognition of traumatic injury prevention across the lifespan as a critical and complex public health challenge, the Casebook of Traumatic Injury Prevention promises to be an influential and authoritative resource for professionals and students in public health, safety, injury prevention, medicine, psychology, sociology, nursing, and engineering. Government agencies and institutions such as the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)
