gastroenterologists and fellows and residents Gastrointestinal Oncology A. B. Benson, 2012-12-06 Gastrointestinal tract malignancies encompass a spectrum of diseases with marked differences in etiology incidence biological behavior and treatment outcome The incidence of new gastrointestinal cases recorded yearly for patients residing in the United States is approximately 230 000 representing nearly 20% of all cancer cases Worldwide gastrointestinal malignancies are responsible for the largest number of cancer deaths particularly because of the high incidence of hepatocellular and gastric cancer in other countries Gastrointestinal Oncology is directed to those most involved in the multidisciplinary approach to the gastrointestinal cancer patient including medical radiation and surgical oncologists gastroenterologists interventional radiologists pathologists oncology nurses and oncology physicians in training

Gastrointestinal Oncology James L. Abbruzzese, 2004 In 74 chapters Gastrointestinal Oncology brings together a diverse group of specialists to provide the most authoritative up to date and encyclopedic volume currently available on the subject The first part of this text introduces a series of concepts and topics that are important to gastrointestinal malignancies in general These topics include epidemiologic principles prevention screening familial GI cancers developmental and molecular biology pathobiology general therapeutic principles emerging therapies and palliative care The second part of the book covers each of the specific cancers affecting the human gastrointestinal tract These chapters are introduced by state of the art discussions outlining our current understanding of the pathobiology and molecular biology relevant to each cancer Subsequent sections describe the multidisciplinary management of specific clinical situations By organizing the treatment related chapters around clinical scenarios the reader will readily find the information necessary to effectively manage the complex clinical situations encountered by patients with gastrointestinal malignancies

Gastrointestinal Oncology John S. MacDonald, 2012-12-06

This is the third volume on gastrointestinal cancer of the Cancer Treatment and Research Series The emphasis in this volume is to present a series of papers on areas of high clinical relevance in malignant diseases of the gut As in the first and second volumes of this series authors have been selected for their expertise and national and international prominence in their fields This volume is organized so that papers explaining basic science proceed those dealing with clinical aspects of gastrointestinal cancer It is clear that in many instances advances gastrointestinal carcinoma cannot be effectively treated if cure is the desired goal When faced with poorly treatable diseases it is obviously important to look toward the causes and prevention of these illnesses For this reason there are several chapters in this volume that examine the issue of carcinogenesis of gastrointestinal cancer Likewise in diseases that are poorly treatable in advanced stages one is interested in early detection Thus early screening of populations becomes important and is dealt with in three papers in this volume Chapters on treatment explore innovative approaches to therapy of gastrointestinal cancer Second look surgery with resection arterial perfusion with chemotherapy adjuvant therapy and neoadjuvant therapy are all addressed in various chapters in this volume Finally four chapters deal with unusual problems in gastrointestinal cancer These papers include discussions of primary hepatobiliary cancer lymphoma of the gut and gastrointestinal endocrine tumors
