China's Brave New World Jeffrey N. meditative work of history puts girls of all races and the landscapes they loved at center stage and reveals the impact of the outdoors on women's independence, resourcefulness and vision. For these trailblazing women of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, navigating the woods, following the stars, playing sports and taking to the streets in peaceful protest were not only joyful pursuits but also techniques to resist assimilation, racism and sexism. Lyrically written and full of archival discoveries, Wild Girls evokes landscapes as richly as the girls who roamed in them and argues for equal access to outdoor spaces for young women of every race and class today.

Learning, Problem Solving, and Mindtools J. Michael Spector, Barbara B. Lockee, Sharon Smaldino, Mary Herring, 2013-04-12. Learning, Problem Solving, and Mindtools is inspired by the substantial body of learning research by David H. Jonassen in the areas of mind tools and problem solving. The focus of the volume is on educational technology, especially with regard to how new technologies have facilitated and supported problem solving and critical thinking. Each chapter focuses on a particular aspect of learning with technology and elaborates the implications for the design and implementation of learning environments and activities aimed at improving the conceptualization of problems, reasoning and higher order thinking and solving challenging problems. This collection of scholarly essays provides a highly engaging treatment of using tools and technologies to improve problem solving, multiple perspectives on integrating educational technology to support learning in complex and challenging problem solving domains, guidance for the design of instruction to support problem solving, a systemic account of the relationships between mental models, instructional models and assessment models, and a look into the future of educational technology research and practice.

Reading Rural Landscapes: A Field Guide to New England's Past Robert Stanford, 2015-07-30. William Faulkner once said, "The past is never dead. It's not even past." Nowhere can you see the truth behind his comment more plainly than in rural New England, especially Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and western Massachusetts. Everywhere we go in rural New England, the past surrounds us. In the woods and fields and along country roads, the traces are everywhere if we know what to look for and how to interpret what we see. A patch of neglected daylilies marks a long abandoned homestead. A grown over cellar hole with nearby stumps and remnants of stone wall and orchard shows us where a farm has been reclaimed by forest. And a piece of a stone dam and wooden sluice mark the site of a long gone mill. Although slumping back into the landscape, these features speak to us if we can hear them and they can guide us to ancestral homesteads and famous sites. Lavishly illustrated with drawings and color photos, it provides the keys to interpret human artifacts in fields, woods and roadsides and to reconstruct the past from surviving clues. Perfect to carry in a backpack or glove box. A unique and valuable resource for road trips, genealogical research, naturalists and historians.
