Information Technology in Educational Management for the Schools of the Future A. Fung,A.J. Visscher,Ben-Zion Barta,David Teather,2013-03-09 This book is for both specialist and generalist For Information Technology IT and Educational Management EM researchers it brings together the latest information and analysis of ITEM projects in eleven countries But the issues raised by this collection of papers are so important for schools school systems and the future of education that it is essential reading not only for researchers but also for teachers administrators and all concerned with the planning and governance of our education systems New technologies may improve our lives in two ways by enabling us to do things better accomplishing what we do already more efficiently and by enabling us to do better things accomplishing new things that we were not able to do before Sometimes doing things better merges into doing better things Thus in the 19th century the coming of the railway enabled our forbears to accomplish their existing journies in less time and in greater comfort But it also opened up the prospect of new journies to more distant places and led ultimately to far reaching changes in lifestyles in new commuter settlements far from the old city centres So it is in the present day with Information Technology in Educational Management Some of the papers in this volume focus on specialist tasks for example how to develop a computer based decision support system to help those drawing up school timetables Others address situations in which the power of the technology offers us the potential to change radically what we do

The School Principal Theodore J. Kowalski,2010-08-14 Over the past two decades efforts to improve schools have significantly modified role expectations for principals Today school level administrators are expected to be both visionary leaders and competent managers Based on the conviction that administration is an amalgam of leadership and management The School Principal emphasizes the need for practitioners to apply conceptual skills to make what to do decisions to apply technical skills to make how to do decisions and to apply relational skills to engage in democratic decision making Kowalski frames the book with a discussion of the nature of schools the roles of principals and their need to improve schools The book then provides a balanced treatment of leadership and management covering issues of personal behavior instructional leadership relationship building issues finances facilities personnel management pupil services and maintaining safe schools The text closes with discussion of the vital aspects of practice for contemporary principals addressing problem solving collaborative change strategies and personal commitment to being a principal Special Features Vignettes introduce the subject matter in the context of common challenges faced by practitioners Knowledge Based Questions and Skill Based Activities prompt readers to engage with and reflect on the chapter content The School Principal aligns with the Educational Leadership Consortium Council ELCC Standards Treating principals as concurrently visionary leaders and competent managers this excellent text addresses the needs of aspiring and practicing principals providing the tools to build effective and efficient schools
