Responding To Climate Change Lessons From An Australian Hotspot:

Responding to Climate Change Paul Burton, 2014-11-05 South East Queensland has been one of the fastest growing regions of Australia both in terms of its rapidly growing population and an ever expanding built environment. It is also one of the most vulnerable regions likely to suffer from the adverse impacts of climate change especially increased flooding, storms, coastal erosion and drought. Responding to Climate Change: Lessons from an Australian Hotspot brings together the results of cutting edge research from members of the Griffith Climate Change Response Program showing how best to respond to anticipated changes and how to overcome barriers to adaptation. The authors treat climate change adaptation as a cross cutting multi level governance policy challenge extending across human settlements, infrastructure, ecosystems, water management, primary industries, emergency management and human health. The research focuses on but is not limited to the experience of climate change adaptation in the recognised climate hotspot of South East Queensland. The results of this research will be of interest to planners, policy makers and other practitioners engaged in urban and environmental planning, coastal management, public health, emergency management and physical infrastructure at the local, regional and metropolitan government scales.

Innovation in Climate Change Adaptation Walter Leal, 2016-01-16 This book introduces innovative approaches to pursue climate change adaptation and to support the long term implementation of climate change policies. Offering new case studies and data as well as projects and initiatives implemented across the globe, the contributors present new tools, approaches and methods to pursue and facilitate innovation in climate change adaptation.

Communicating Climate Change Information for Decision-Making Silvia Serrao-Neumann, Anne Coudrain, Liese Coulter, 2018-03-20 This book provides important insight on a range of issues focused on three themes: what new climate change information is being developed; how that knowledge is communicated; and how it can be usefully applied across international, regional and local scales. There is increasing international investment and interest to develop and communicate updated climate change information to promote effective action. As change accelerates and planetary boundaries are crossed, this information becomes particularly relevant to guide decisions and support both proactive adaptation and mitigation strategies. Developing new information addresses innovations in producing interdisciplinary climate change knowledge and overcoming issues of data quality, access and availability. This book examines effective information systems to guide decision making for immediate and future action. Case studies in developed and developing countries illustrate how climate change information promotes immediate and future actions across a range of sectors.

Climate Adaptation Governance in Cities and Regions Jörg Knieling, 2016-05-11 Global climate change creates new challenges in particular for cities and regions. As centres of human activity, they are especially vulnerable to climate change impacts. Adapting to a changing climate requires dealing with multiple uncertainties and complexity in order to allow proactive action. Therefore, cities and regions around the globe face the challenge of exploring flexible and innovative forms of governance which have to address specific local or regional vulnerabilities and build capacity to accommodate future change This raises questions about the roles of stakeholders the involvement of citizens the composition and use of formal and informal instruments as well as the implementation of different forms of organization and regulation at the local and regional level This book provides case studies from cities and regions all around the world It analyses climate change adaptation from a perspective of organizing administering and implementing local and regional adaptation strategies and measures It looks into actors actor constellations institutions and networks of climate adaptation And it provides the reader with knowledge about good practices and experiences to be transferred for solving adaptation challenges in cities and regions around the globe
