Washington David Schoenbrod, 2008-10-01 Congress empowered the Environmental Protection Agency on the theory that only a national agency that is insulated from accountability to voters could produce the scientifically grounded pollution rules needed to save a careless public from its own filth In this provocative book David Schoenbrod explains how his experience as an environmental advocate brought him to this startling realization letting EPA dictate to the nation is a mistake Through a series of gripping and illuminating anecdotes from his own career the author reveals the EPA to be an agency that under Democrats and Republicans alike delays good rules imposes bad ones and is so big muscle bound and remote that it does unnecessary damage to our society EPA stays in power he says because it enables elected legislators to evade responsibility by hiding behind appointed bureaucrats The best environmental rules those that have done the most good have come when Congress had to take responsibility or from states and localities rather than the EPA With the passion of an authentic environmentalist Schoenbrod makes a sensible plea for bottom up environmental protection now The responsibility for pollution control belongs not in agencies but in legislatures and usually not at the federal level but rather closer to home

Legitimacy Pierre Rosanvallon, 2011-07-05 It's a commonplace that citizens in Western democracies are disaffected with their political leaders and traditional democratic institutions But in Democratic Legitimacy Pierre Rosanvallon one of today's leading political thinkers argues that this crisis of confidence is partly a crisis of understanding He makes the case that the sources of democratic legitimacy have shifted and multiplied over the past thirty years and that we need to comprehend and make better use of these new sources of legitimacy in order to strengthen our political self belief and commitment to democracy Drawing on examples from France and the United States Rosanvallon notes that there has been a major expansion of independent commissions NGOs regulatory authorities and watchdogs in recent decades At the same time constitutional courts have become more willing and able to challenge legislatures These institutional developments which serve the democratic values of impartiality and reflexivity have been accompanied by a new attentiveness to what Rosanvallon calls the value of proximity as governing structures have sought to find new spaces for minorities the particular and the local To improve our democracies we need to use these new sources of legitimacy more effectively and we need to incorporate them into our accounts of democratic government An original contribution to the vigorous international debate
