Becoming a Food Scientist Robert L. Shewfelt, 2012-04-23 Becoming a Food Scientist is designed as a reservoir of ideas for those beginning a graduate education in food science or beginning a professional career in the field Although at times it may read as a how to manual for success in graduate school it is meant to encourage each reader to study the research process to challenge conventional wisdom and to develop a career path that maximizes the probability of success both in school and beyond The author has viewed food science graduate programs through the lenses of programs at four universities and service in numerous activities with the Institute of Food Technologists This book is thus focused on the field of food science but it may have relevance to other scientific disciplines The book introduces the concept of research as process in the first chapter Subsequent chapters focus on individual unit operations of research idea generation problem

Grants Jean M. Fromm, 2007 Grants are available from thousands of sources, both private and public. To the grantseeker, however, this wealth of sources appears like an impenetrable jungle. Where are the grants I need, and what do I need to do to submit my ideas and proposals? This book is designed to answer these questions by aiming the grantseeker to both the grant givers and by providing a bibliography of books for further research.
