Navigating Complexity in International Development Danny Burns, Stuart Worsley, 2015 A Theology of International Development Thia Cooper, 2020-02-05 Religion and development have been intertwined since development's beginnings yet faith based aid and development agencies consistently fail to consider how their theology and practice intersect This book offers a Christian theology of development with practical solutions to bridge the gap and return to truly faith based policies and practices Development aims to raise the living standard of the world's poor mainly through small scale projects that increase economic growth A theology of liberation provided a critique to development practice but a specific theology of development is still lacking and many faith based aid agencies have failed to adapt their practice In applying theological thinking to development the author argues that aid agencies need to address the entrenchment of unequal power relations and embrace a holistic notion of development defined by the needs of those most marginalized instead of by a focus on economic growth Development organisations need to consider the distinction between charity and justice and to empower people in the Global South paying particular attention to the intersections of race class sexuality religion and the environment Overall this book is a powerful call to upend development practice as it currently exists and to return faith based organizations to following Christian practices It will be an important read for religion and development researchers practitioners and students Redefining Theory and Practice to Guide Social Transformation: Emerging Research and Opportunities Fisher-Yoshida, Beth, Camilo Lopez, Joan, 2020-12-25 The application of theory to practice in addressing social transformation still has a lot of room for growth and improvement This is also true of theory being informed by practice Too often there are gaps between what is studied in the academy and what is needed in the field The academy develops theories in isolation from the everyday lives of people especially in post conflict environments Communities seeking innovative ways to address their social needs can benefit from the learning of theories and research conducted within academia At the same time these methods need to be relevant to the local contexts within which they are being used While there are certain norms of communication in the academy of how research is conducted and disseminated there needs to be a translation into practical terms to be used in the field Redefining Theory and Practice to Guide Social Transformation Emerging Research and Opportunities addresses the need practitioners and social change agents have in finding processes and practices to use in the field to engage with and transform communities This critical reference book provides an innovative fieldwork method that leads to social transformation and suggests ways to further develop the relationship between academic theories and practices around social conflicts with the existing local knowledge The chapters include mini case studies that have been developed over the years from the authors work with youth and community leaders with the objective of providing a methodology that allows practitioners to approach the field by engaging with local actors in ways that are generative and trustworthy yet rigorous While highlighting the practices notions and technologies that are at work

Ragged Trousered NGOs Charles Buxton,2019-05-17 Ragged Trousered NGOs is a compelling first hand account of the NGO sector and wider civil society over the past 40 years examining how and why people take collective action and engage in social development projects The book explores different organisational and methodological aspects of NGO work and social action asking what was possible to achieve at a grass roots level at different times in different economic and political contexts in the East and West Adopting a critical perspective the author argues that social action continues to play a vital and varied role and yet it struggles to challenge deep rooted power relations and traditional forms of behaviour in today s unequal world In particular the book draws on examples from the former Soviet Union in transition and the UK s voluntary sector over the last 40 years with a view to challenging Eurocentric views about organisations and communities The analysis adopts a Gramscian view of hegemony and an internationalist and anti war position on key issues arising in recent armed conflicts and the new cold war with Russia The book concludes by addressing the challenges for development workers noting the precarious nature of NGO work despite its many achievements and suggesting ways in which social activists can pick up more strength and support This book s practical perspective on progressive forms of organisational management will be of considerable interest to civil society and NGO development workers as well as to researchers and students in the fields of international development politics sociology and regional studies
