Regulating Family Responsibilities Jo

Bridgeman, 2016-04-08 This collection brings together some of the most eminent and exciting authors researching family responsibilities to examine understandings of the day to day responsibilities which people undertake within families and the role of the law in the construction of those understandings The authors explore a range of questions fundamental to our understanding of responsibility in family life To whom and to what ends are family members responsible Is responsibility primarily a matter of care Can we fulfil our family responsibilities by paying those to whom we owe responsibility Or by paying others to fulfil our caring obligations for us In each of these circumstances the chapters in this collection explore what it means to have family responsibilities what constitutes an adequate performance of such responsibilities and the point at which the state intervenes At the heart of this collection is an interest in the way in which the changing family affects people's perception and exercise their family responsibilities and how the law attempts to regulate and understand those responsibilities The essays range across intact and separated or fragmented families from lone and shared parenting in single homes to caring across households and even across international boundaries to reflect on the actual caring responsibilities of family members and on the fulfilment of financial responsibilities in families This collection seeks to advance our understanding of the attempts of the law and its limits in regulating the responsibilities which family members take for each other

Rethinking Rights and Responsibilities Arthur J. Dyck, 2005-02-08

As members of various and often conflicting communities how do we reconcile what we have come to understand as our human rights with our responsibilities toward one another With the bright thread of individualism woven through the American psyche where can our sense of duty toward others be found What has happened to our love even our concern for our neighbor In this revised edition of his magisterial exploration of these critical questions renowned ethicist Arthur Dyck revisits and profoundly hones his call for the moral bonds of community In all areas of contemporary life be it in business politics health care religion and even in family relationships the right of individuals to consider themselves first has taken precedence over our responsibilities toward others Dyck contends that we must recast the language of rights to take into account our once natural obligations to all the communities of which we are a part Rethinking Rights and Responsibilities at the nexus of ethics political theory public policy and law traces how the peculiarly American formulations of the rights of the individual have assaulted our connections with and responsibilities for those around us Dyck critically examines contemporary society and the relationship between responsibilities and rights particularly as they are expressed in medicine and health care to maintain that while indeed rights and responsibilities form the moral bonds of community we must begin with the rudimentary task of taking better care of one another Peace Diplomacy, Global Justice and International Agency Carsten Stahn, Henning Melber, 2014-04-24 This critical review of Hammarskjöld's legacy as Secretary General explores the contemporary relevance of his international civil service agency and leadership Organ Replacement Therapy: Ethics, Justice Commerce Walter Land, John B.
