Origins of the Black Atlantic Laurent Dubois, Julius S. Scott, 2013-01-11 Between 1492 and 1820 about two thirds of the people who crossed the Atlantic to the Americas were Africans With the exception of the Spanish all the European empires settled more Africans in the New World than they did Europeans The vast majority of these enslaved men and women worked on plantations and their labor was the foundation for the expansion of the Atlantic economy during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Until relatively recently comparatively little attention was paid to the perspectives daily experiences hopes and especially the political ideas of the enslaved who played such a central role in the making of the Atlantic world Over the past decades however huge strides have been made in the study of the history of slavery and emancipation in the Atlantic world This collection brings together some of the key contributions to this growing body of scholarship showing a range of methodological approaches that can be used to understand and reconstruct the lives of these enslaved people

The Atlantic in World History Karen Ordahl Kupperman, 2012-07-13 As Europeans began to move into the Atlantic in the late fifteenth century first encountering islands and then two continents across the sea they initiated a process that revolutionized the lives of people everywhere American foods enriched their diets Furs precious metals dyes and many other products underwrote new luxury trades and tobacco became the first consumer craze as the price plummeted with ever enlarging production Much of the technology that made new initiatives such as sailing out of sight of land possibly drew on Asian advances that came into Europe through North Africa Sugar and other crops came along the same routes and Europeans found American environments ideal for their cultivation Leaders along the African coast controlled the developing trade with Europeans and products from around the Atlantic entered African life As American plantations were organized on an industrial scale they became voracious consumers of labor American Indians European indentured servants and enslaved Africans were all employed and over time slavery became the predominant labor system in the plantation economies American Indians adopted imported technologies and goods to enhance their own lives but diseases endemic in the rest of the world to which Americans had no acquired immunity led to dramatic population decline in some areas From Brazil to Canada Indians withdrew into the interior where they formed large and powerful new confederations Atlantic exchange opened new possibilities All around the ocean states that had been marginal to the main centers in the continents interiors now found themselves at the forefront of developing trades with the promise of wealth and power European women and men whose prospects were circumscribed at home saw potential in emigration Economic aspirations beckoned large numbers but also in the maelstrom following the Reformation others sought the chance to worship as they saw fit Many saw their hopes dashed but some succeeded as they had desired Ultimately as people of African and European descent came to predominate in American populations they broke political ties to Europe and reshaped transatlantic relationships
