Garstang,1987 Lunar Meteoroid Impacts and How to Observe Them Brian Cudnik,2010-03-10 The genesis of modern searches for observable meteoritic phenomena on the Moon is the paper by Lincoln La Paz in Popular Astronomy magazine in 1938 In it he argued that the absence of observed fashes of meteoritic impacts on the Moon might be interpreted to mean that these bodies are destroyed as luminous meteors in an extremely rarefed lunar atmosphere The paper suggested the possibility of systematic searches for such possible lunar meteors With these concepts in mind I was surprised to note a transient moving bright speck on the Moon on July 10 1941 It appeared to behave very much as a lunar meteor would except that the poorly estimated duration would lead to a strongly hyperbolic heliocentric velocity Thus the idea of systematic searches for both p sible lunar meteors and meteoritic impact fashes was born It was appreciated that much time might need to be expended to achieve any positive results Systematic searches were carried out by others and myself chiefy in the years 1945 1965 and became a regular program at the newly founded Association of Lunar and Planetary Observers or ALPO

National Optical Astronomy Observatories Newsletter ,1991 Using Commercial Amateur Astronomical Spectrographs Jeffrey L. Hopkins,2013-11-19 Amateur astronomers interested in learning more about astronomical spectroscopy now have the guide they need It provides detailed information about how to get started inexpensively with low resolution spectroscopy and then how to move on to more advanced high resolution spectroscopy Uniquely the instructions concentrate very much on the practical aspects of using commercially available spectroscopes rather than simply explaining how spectroscopes work The book includes a clear explanation of the laboratory theory behind astronomical spectrographs and goes on to extensively cover the practical application of astronomical spectroscopy in detail Four popular and reasonably priced commercially available diffraction grating spectrographs are used as examples The first is a low resolution transmission diffraction grating the Star Analyser spectrograph The second is an inexpensive fiber optic coupled bench spectrograph that can be used to learn more about spectroscopy The third is a newcomer the ALPY 600 spectrograph The fourth spectrograph considered is at the other end of the market both in performance and cost the high resolution Lhires III While considerably more expensive this is a popular and excellent scientific instrument that allows more advanced amateur astronomers to produce scientifically valuable data With all of these tools in place the amateur astronomer is well prepared to forger deeper into the night sky using spectroscopy
