OECD Public Governance Reviews Together for Better Public Services: Partnering with Citizens and Civil Society

OECD,2011-08-31 This report offers a comprehensive survey of partnership practices across OECD countries Achieving Transformation and Renewal in Financial Services Rohit Talwar,2016-08-01 The rules for survival and success have never been so unclear the choice of strategies so uncertain and the pressure to act quickly so immense Achieving transformation and renewal in financial services focuses on cases and concepts that describe how leading players in financial services have addressed the challenges of organizational transformation and renewal It is a practical handbook providing a rich and diverse set of case examples on how companies have been rethinking and reshaping their business operations to ensure they remain competitive into the 21st century Rohit Talwar also considers some of the strategic implications of competing in a continuously changing wired world and how to survive and thrive in such a turbulent environment Offshore Outsourcing of IT Work

M. Lacity,J. Rottman,2008-02-01 This book considers offshore client supplier relationships biggest challenges including the protection of intellectual property and managing knowledge transfer and offshore outsourcing at project level Based on over 150 interviews and case studies this is an invaluable read for managers and researchers looking to learn from real experiences Participation, Marginalization and Welfare Services Aila-Leena Matthies,Lars Uggerhøj,2016-05-13

Current debates around participation and marginalization dominate the agenda of many European political forums There is an increasing concern about the stability of social cohesion and a growing number of particular groups of people who are regarded as being at risk of being socially excluded or marginalized This volume goes beyond the surface of public discussions to look at the central role played by welfare services in European societies in either strengthening or hindering participatory citizenship and democracy In current discussions welfare services understood in a broad sense are centrally positioned there are high expectations that welfare services can hinder marginalization and enable participation Yet marginalization is in most cases rooted in the deeper structures of society with economy participation and involvement dependent on political or highly personal factors which are beyond the scope of welfare services This groundbreaking volume posits that participation and marginalization are twin concepts expressing opposing sides of one and the same processes faced by individuals and communities It will be essential reading for social workers sociologists and policy makers throughout Europe resources are directed to those with most need that care is fair and accessible and that the solutions you put into place are sustainable for the longer term

Innovation in Public Sector Services Paul Windrum, Per M. Koch, 2008-01-01 This is a timely and important contribution on innovation processes within the public sector Departing from the myth of private equal to entrepreneurial public equal to bureaucratic paralysis it offers precious insights into public sector learning entrepreneurship of course inertias and also the trade offs involved in different management philosophies and performance evaluation methods It is a rare example of political economy done right Giovanni Dosi Sant Anna School of Advanced Studies Pisa Innovation and entrepreneurship have become the cornerstones for economic growth jobs and competitiveness in the global economy However the burden for generating an innovative economy has fallen on the private sector Scholars have been remarkably taciturn concerning the role for innovation and entrepreneurship in the public sector has remained strikingly invisible No more In Innovation in Public Sector Services the authors assemble a team of leading international scholars in a path breaking study to identify the potential for the public sector in contributing to innovation and entrepreneurship In particular the volume introduces an insightful new analytical framework that lays the foundations for transforming a sleepy public sector into a dynamic innovative and highly effective partner for leadership and change in the global era Scholars policy makers and business leaders who think that the public sector is condemned to being a hindrance to innovation and entrepreneurship rather than a leader championing change and competitiveness in a global economy would be well advised to read this important new book David B Audretsch Indiana University Bloomington US and WHU Germany This groundbreaking book provides new key insights and opens up an important research agenda The book develops a new taxonomy of the different types of innovation found in public sector services and investigates the key features and drivers of public sector entrepreneurship The book contains new statistical studies and a set of six international case studies in health and social services The research shows that public sector organisations are important innovators in their own right Economic growth and social development depend on efficient public sector organisations that deliver high quality services are effectively organised and have excellent interactions with the private sector NGOs and citizens Public sector innovation is complex invariably involving changes in services organisational structures and managerial practices Essential to successful innovation are the policy entrepreneurs and service entrepreneurs who develop organise and manage new innovations This book provides key lessons for these public sector entrepreneurs Innovation in Public Sector Services fills a fundamental gap explaining the dynamics of innovation and entrepreneurship in public sector services and is of great importance for researchers academics and students interested in innovation entrepreneurship and strategy management It provides a stimulating read for anyone working or interested in health and social services

Dental Services Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Health Committee, 2008 In April 2006 the Department of Health reformed the General Dental Service Primary Care Trusts PCTs were given the power to commission dental services the patient charging system was simplified and under the terms of a new dental contract dentists were remunerated according to the number of Units of Dental Activity UDA completed The Department issued a number of criteria for success patient experience clinical quality NHS commissioning and improving dentists working lives This report assesses how far they had been met Various measures of access to dental services all indicate that the situation is deteriorating The numbers of dentists working for the NHS and the number of courses of treatment provided has fallen slightly The total number of patients seen by an NHS dentist between December 2005 and December 2007 has fallen by 900 000 compared with the two years up to March 2006 Access is uneven across the country The introduction of the new charging system has simplified the system for patients but problems remain The new contract was meant to improve preventive care but dentists claim it fails to provide the time and the financial incentive to do so The number of complex treatments including laboratory work root canal treatments has fallen markedly whilst the number of tooth extractions has increased The reason for the decline in the number of complex treatments has not been explained satisfactorily PCT commissioning of dental services has been poor The new remuneration system based on UDAs has proved extremely unpopular with dentists It is extraordinary that the Department did not pilot or test the UDA payment system before it was introduced in 2006 The Committee makes a number of recommendations for improving dental services

Abolition in Social Work and Human Services Ian Hyslop,Bob Pease,2025-09-11 Globally social workers are committed to human rights and challenging unjust social structures However their close ties to the state often reinforce such systems of oppression The first to apply abolitionist theory from international perspectives to social work this book examines this contradiction exploring whether social work can embrace radical change while operating within state structures Bringing together scholars from the United States Canada England Ireland Scotland Finland Australia and Aotearoa New Zealand it explores alternatives for addressing issues such as child protection mental health violence against women drug use violent extremism homelessness and Indigenous sovereignty Essential reading for academics researchers students human service practitioners and social activists this book interrogates the implications of social work s complicity with systems that perpetuate oppression and social injustice

Library Services to Youth of Hispanic Heritage Barbara Immroth,Kathleen de la Peña McCook,2000-05-15 As the United States becomes ever more comfortable with recognizing the cultural diversity of the many groups that make up its population library services must seek to meet patrons needs as they are shaped and expressed by their cultural backgrounds This goal is particularly important for youth library services For young people of Hispanic heritage library services attuned to their specific needs and interests are crucial Many librarians struggle with how to properly create and maintain library programs and collections that are suitable to the needs of Hispanic youth In this series of essays prepared for the Trejo Foster Foundation for Hispanic Library Education Fourth National Institute national leaders in librarianship present their insights about how best to meet the needs of young Hispanic library patrons The text is introduced by the editors and the essays are arranged in parts Programs Collections Planning and
