Modality Subjectivity And Semantic Change A Cross Linguistic Perspective Oxford Linguistics:

Modality, Subjectivity, and Semantic Change Heiko Narrog, 2012-07-19 This book is a cross linguistic exploration of semantic and functional change in modal markers Its approach is broadly functional typological but makes frequent reference to work in formal semantics by scholars such as Angelika Kratzer and Paul Portner The author starts by considering what modality is and how it relates to and differs from subjectivity He argues that modality cannot be defined in terms of subjectivity both concepts are independent of each other the first exhibiting different degrees of subjectivity and the second being operative in a much wider range of grammatical and lexical categories Subjectivity he suggests should not be defined solely in terms of performativity evidentiality or construal but rather from the interplay of multiple semantic and pragmatic factors He then presents a two dimensional model for the descriptive representation of modality based on the notion that among the many aspects of modal meaning volitivity and speech act orientation versus event orientation are two of its most salient parameters He shows that it is especially the dimension of speech act orientation versus event orientation parallel to category climbing in syntax that is operative in diachronic change Numerous examples of diachronic change within modality and between modality and other categories are then examined with respect to their directionality With a focus on Japanese and to a lesser extent Chinese the book is a countercheck to hypotheses built on the Indo European languages It also contains numerous illustrations from other languages Modality and Diachronic Construction Grammar Martin Hilpert, Bert Cappelle, Ilse Depraetere, 2021-10-15 This volume explores how Diachronic Construction Grammar can shed new light on changes in a central and well researched domain of grammar namely modality Its main goal is to show how constructional analyses can help us address some of the long standing questions that have informed discussions of modal expressions and their development and to illustrate the processes that are involved in these developments on the basis of data from languages such as English Finnish French Galician German and Japanese The studies in this volume are organized around three interrelated topics The first of these concerns the organization of modal constructions in a network A second focus area of the studies in this volume concerns the developmental pathways that modal constructions follow diachronically The third topic that ties the contributions of this volume together is the contrast between constructionalization and constructional change

The Oxford Handbook of Modality and Mood Jan Nuyts, Johan van der Auwera, 2016-09-08 This handbook offers an in depth and comprehensive state of the art survey of the linguistic domains of modality and mood An international team of experts in the field examines the full range of methodological and theoretical approaches to the many facets of the phenomena involved Parts 1 and 2 of the volume present the basic linguistic facts about the systems of modality and mood in the languages of the world covering the semantics and the expression of different subtypes of modality and mood respectively The authors also examine the interaction of modality and mood mutually and with other semantic categories such as aspect time negation and evidentiality In Part 3 authors discuss the features of the modality and mood systems in five typologically different language groups while chapters in Part 4 deal with wider perspectives on modality and mood diachrony areality first language acquisition and sign language Finally Part 5 looks at how modality and mood are handled in different theoretical approaches formal syntax functional linguistics cognitive linguistics and construction grammar and formal semantics Grammaticalization from a Typological Perspective Heiko Narrog, Bernd

Heine, 2018-10-18 This volume explores the way in which grammaticalization processes whereby lexical words eventually become markers of grammatical categories converge and differ across various types of language While grammaticalization at its core is a unidirectional phenomenon in which the same pathways of change are replicated across languages certain language types and language areas have distinct preferences with respect to what they grammaticalize and how Previous work has principally addressed this question with specific reference to languages of Southeast and East Asia that do not seem to grammaticalize paradigms of categories in the same manner as Indo European languages or form extensive grammaticalization chains This volume takes a broader approach and proceeds systematically area by area specialists in the field address the processes of grammaticalization in languages of Africa Europe Asia and the Pacific and the Americas and in creole languages The studies reveal a number of unique pathways of grammaticalization in each language area as well as identifying the universal shared features of the phenomenon Epistemic Modalities and Evidentiality in

Cross-Linguistic Perspective Zlatka Guentchéva, 2018-04-09 This volume explores phenomena which come under the heading of epistemic modalities and evidentiality in more or less well known languages Germanic Romance Balto Slavic Hungarian Tibetan Lakandon and Yucatec Maya Arwak Chibchan Kogi and Ika It reveals cross linguistic variations in the structuring of these vast fields of enquiry and clearly demonstrates the relevance and interplay of multiple factors involved in the analysis of these two conceptual domains Although the contributions present diverging descriptive traditions they are nonetheless within the broad domain of functional typological linguistics and give access to distinct yet comparable approaches They all converge around a number of key issues modal verbs the relationship between epistemic modality and evidentiality the relationship of modal notions with some tense and aspect notions the notions of inter subjectivity commitment and dis engagement the prosodic variation of modal adverbs the diachronic connections between negation and evidential markers the connection with mirativity The volume is of interest to linguists and advanced graduate students working in general and theoretical linguistics semantics pragmatics cognition and typology Modal particles in Italian Marco Favaro, 2023-12-20 This study investigates the properties of a set of Italian adverbs among others pure also solo only un po a bit that in specific contexts of use modify the speech acts in which they appear On the one hand these elements specify the way in which a speech act should be interpreted with reference to the specific interactional context modifying its illocutionary force On the other hand they index presupposed inferred meanings active in the common ground of the interaction integrating the speech act in the common ground These functions closely resemble those of the elements that especially in the German linguistic tradition are called modal particles Drawing on original data from Italian both from the standard language and regional varieties the goal of the study is to describe the synchronic features of these elements and to explain the emergence of the modal uses For this purpose it jointly employs theoretical notions of pragmatics speech act theory inferences in interaction models of language change reanalysis and conventionalization and the descriptive tools of sociolinguistic approaches Through the presentation of four case studies integrating corpus and questionnaire data the present work gives a thorough analysis of the modal functions and the contexts of use of the adverbs under investigation it explores their role at the semantics pragmatics interface it discusses their place in a layered model of grammar and it examines their distribution across different language varieties

Balkan Syntax and (Universal) Principles of

Grammar Iliyana Krapova, Brian Joseph, 2018-11-19 This book investigates morpho syntactic convergences that characterize the languages of the Balkan Sprachbund Balkan Slavic Greek Romanian Albanian Balkan Romani Apart from new data the volume features contributions within different theoretical frameworks contact linguistics functional linguistics typology areal linguistics and generative grammar

Pragmatic Aspects of Scalar Modifiers

Osamu Sawada, 2018 This volume examines the meaning of scalar modifiers expressions such as more than a bit and much from the standpoint of the semantics pragmatics interface It draws on data from Japanese and a range of other languages to explore the information expressed by these modifiers at both the semantic and the pragmatic level

Re-Assessing Modalising Expressions

Pascal Hohaus, Rainer Schulze, 2020-11-15 Mood modality and evidentiality are popular and dynamic areas in linguistics Re Assessing Modalising Expressions Categories co text and context focuses on the specific issue of the ways language users express permission obligation volition intention possibility and ability necessity and prediction linguistically Using a range of evidence and corpus data collected from different sources the authors of this volume examine the distribution and functions of a range of patterns involving modalising expressions as predominantly found in standard American English British English or Hong Kong English but also in Japanese The authors are particularly interested in addressing co textual manifestations of modalising expressions as well as their distribution across different text types and thus filling a gap research was unable to plug in the past Thoughts on categorising or re categorising modalising expressions initiate and complement a multi perspectival enterprise that is intended to bring research in this area a step forward
