

A narrow, wet street at night, illuminated by streetlights. The wet pavement reflects the lights, creating a shimmering effect. The walls on either side are made of brick and concrete, with various graffiti tags visible. On the left wall, there is a blue tag that looks like 'LA'. On the right wall, there is a red tag that looks like 'LA'. The street leads into the distance, where a car is visible. The overall atmosphere is gritty and urban.

Mignolo, Arturo Escobar, 2013-10-18 This is the first book in English profiling the work of a research collective that evolved around the notion of coloniality understood as the hidden agenda and the darker side of modernity and whose members are based in South America and the United States The project called for an understanding of modernity not from modernity itself but from its darker side coloniality and proposes the de colonization of knowledge as an epistemological restitution with political and ethical implications Epistemic decolonization or de coloniality becomes the horizon to imagine and act toward global futures in which the notion of a political enemy is replaced by intercultural communication and towards an other rationality that puts life first and that places institutions at its service rather than the other way around The volume is profoundly inter and trans disciplinary with authors writing from many intellectual transdisciplinary and institutional spaces This book was published as a special issue of Cultural Studies
