Osmosis & Diffusion

Cell Membrane

Just as every cell membrane is important, every cell has important organelles. The cell membrane is made of a phospholipid bilayer, which is only one substance across the cell but it is not.

Diffusion

Small molecules move across cell membranes through a natural ability called diffusion. Diffusion happens by which a substance moves from a place of high concentration to a place of low concentration. This process continues until the concentration of the substance is the same on both sides of the membrane.

Osmosis

Osmosis is the diffusion of water across a selectively permeable membrane. The movement of water from one side of the membrane to the other.

Active Transport
The transport of molecules across the cell membrane from a low concentration to a high concentration through a carrier. The transport of molecules through a cell membrane using energy is called active transport.

Passive Transport
The transport of molecules across the cell membrane from a high concentration to a low concentration through a carrier. The transport of molecules through a cell membrane using energy is called passive transport.
