Thinking and Reasoning: A Very Short Introduction Jonathan St. B. T. Evans, 2017-09-21

Our extraordinary capacity to reason and solve problems sets us aside from other animals, but our evolved thinking processes also leave us susceptible to bias and error. The study of thinking and reasoning goes back to Aristotle and was one of the first topics to be studied when psychology separated from philosophy. In this Very Short Introduction, Jonathan Evans explores cognitive psychological approaches to understanding the nature of thinking and reasoning, problem solving, and decision making. He shows how our problem-solving capabilities are hugely dependent on also having the imagination to ask the right questions and the ability to see things from a completely new perspective. Beginning by considering the approaches of the behaviourists and the Gestalt psychologists, he moves on to modern explorations of thinking, including hypothetical thinking, conditionals, deduction, rationality, and intuition. Covering the role of past learning, IQ, and cognitive biases, Evans also discusses the idea that there may be two different ways of thinking arising from our evolutionary history.

The Psychology of Music: A Very Short Introduction Elizabeth Hellmuth Margulis, 2018-10-08

Music has been examined from multiple perspectives as a product of human history, for example, or a product of human culture. But there is also a long tradition intensified in recent decades of thinking about music as a product of the human mind. Whether considering composition, performance, listening, or appreciation, the constraints and capabilities of the human mind play a formative role. The field that has emerged around this approach is known as the psychology of music. Written in a lively and accessible manner, this volume connects the science to larger questions about music that are of interest to practicing musicians, music therapists, musicologists, and the general public alike. For example, Why can one musical performance move an audience to tears and another compel them to dance, clap, or snap along? How does a hype playlist motivate someone at the gym? And why is that top 40 song stuck in everyone's head?
