Center Ross C. Brownson Professor of Epidemiology, Elizabeth A. Baker Associate Professor of Behavioral Science and Health Education, Terry L. Leet Assistant Professor of Epidemiology, Missouri Kathleen N. Gillespie Associate Professor of Health Management and Policy All at St. Louis University School of Public Health, 2002-09-19 Ideally public health practitioners always incorporate scientific evidence in making management decisions developing policies and implementing programs In reality however these decisions are often based on short term demands rather than long term study and policies and programs are sometimes developed from anecdotal evidence To enhance evidence based practice this book provides practical guidance on how to choose carry out and evaluate evidence based programs and policies in public health settings It deals not only with finding and using scientific evidence but also with implementing and evaluating interventions that generate new evidence on effectiveness Because all these topics are broad and require multi disciplinary skills and perspectives each chapter covers the basic issues and provides multiple examples to illustrate important concepts The book presents a sequential framework for addressing public health issues that includes developing an initial statement of the issue quantifying the issue searching the scientific literature and organizing information developing and prioritizing program options developing an action plan and implementing interventions and evaluating the program or policy
