New Collecting: Exhibiting and Audiences after New Media Art Beryl Graham, 2016-04-29 The collections of museums, galleries and online art organisations are increasingly broadening to include more new media art. Because new media is used as a means of documenting, archiving and distributing art and because new media art might be interactive with its audiences, this highlights the new kinds of relationships that might occur between audiences as viewers, participants, selectors, taggers or taxonomisers. New media art presents many challenges to the curator and collector but there is very little published analytical material available to help meet those challenges. This book fills that gap. Drawing from the editor's extensive research and the authors' expertise in the field, the book provides clear navigation through a disparate arena. The authors offer examples from a wide geographical reach including the UK, North

America and Asia and integrate the consideration of audience response into all aspects of their work The book will be essential reading for those studying or practicing in new media curating or museums and galleries
