Examining Praxis ,2008-01-01 This is a book for everyone trying to improve teacher education Based on experiences primarily in Sweden three models for assessment of student achievements are analysed the small thesis model the portfolio model and the case based model What are the characteristics of these types and how could they be understood in a broader perspective The Feuerstein Method Refael S. Feuerstein, 2024-04-24 This book is designed to help parents and professionals respond to the behavioral potential of children and adults diagnosed with autistic spectrum disorder ASD through the application of the Feuerstein method an approach that brings an alternative and innovative treatment modality that uncovers and enhances the learning potential that traditional diagnoses and treatment methods often overlook or discourage. The method is based on Reuven Feuerstein's formulations of cognitive modifiability and has been implemented successfully and confirmed by both research results and the experiences of teachers and parents. This book is a valued resource for treatment including descriptions of the basic concepts of the method and their application to the assessment and treatment of those functioning within the spectrum. Each chapter is specifically written by members of the Feuerstein Institute clinical and research team. The chapters are interspersed with case studies that illustrate the principles and practices described therein and is written in an accessible and clear language for practitioners and parents. Presenting a new and optimistic paradigm in defining and responding to ASD, this is an invaluable resource for parents and practitioners concerned about meeting the needs of the ASD individual and acquiring insights and techniques for seeking or implementing treatment.

Assessing Deaf Adults Judith L. Mounty, David S. Martin, 2005. Historically, deaf and hard of hearing people have demonstrated various levels of competence in a multitude of professions but they also have experienced discrimination and oppression. In five critical sections, this volume responds to the tidal wave of high stakes testing that has come to dominate educational policy and qualification for various occupations. It provides a digest of relevant research to meet the testing challenge, including work done by educational researchers, legal experts, test developers, and others. Section I frames the contexts facing deaf and hard of hearing individuals and those who test them, including a telling historical perspective. In Section II, chapters explore how deaf and hard of hearing candidates can meet the rigors of test taking, how to level the playing field with a new approach to assessment, and what to consider to develop fully accessible licensing tests. The final chapter in this part examines the psychometric properties of intellectual assessments when used with deaf and hard of hearing people. Administrative Issues constitute Section III, beginning with legal considerations related to equity testing for deaf adults. An exploration of the potential of sign language interpretation in the testing environment follows. Section IV provides case studies of deaf and hard of hearing adults from a variety of professions, including certification testing for therapeutic recreation preparation strategies for university students and ways to maximize access to licensure for social workers. A separate chapter addresses the impact of recent federal mandates on assessment of deaf and hard of hearing teachers and teaching candidates. The final section summarizes the current situation and presents recommendations to manage it, concluding with an epilogue on directions for the future.

Constitutional Review in Europe Maartje De Visser, 2013-11-22. Constitutions serve to delineate state powers and enshrine basic rights. Such matters are hardly uncontroversial but perhaps even more controversial are the questions of who should uphold the Constitution and how constitutional review is organised. These two questions are the subject of this book by Maartje de Visser, which offers a comprehensive comparative analysis of how 11 representative European countries answer these questions, as well as a critical appraisal of the EU legal order in light of these national experiences. Where possible, the book endeavours to identify Europe's common and diverse constitutional traditions of constitutional review. The raison d'être jurisdiction and composition of constitutional courts are explored and so too are core features of the constitutional adjudicatory process. Yet this book also deliberately draws attention to the role of non-judicial actors in upholding the Constitution as well as the complex interplay amongst constitutional courts and other actors at the national and European level. The Member States featured are Belgium, the Czech Republic, Finland, France, Germany, Italy, Hungary, the Netherlands, Spain, Poland and the United Kingdom. This book is intended for practitioners, academics and students with an interest in European constitutional law.
