Considering autobiographical writings by five women writers from the seventeenth century to the present, Parati draws important connections between self-writing and the debate over women's roles, both traditional and transgressive. Parati considers the first prose autobiography written by an Italian woman, Camilla Faa di Gonzaga's 1622 memoir, as her beginning point, citing it as a central pre-text. Parati then examines the autobiographies of Enrica Roberti, Fausta Cialente, Rita Levi Montalcini, and Luisa Passerini. Through her discussion of these women's writings she demonstrates the complex negotiations over identity contained within them negotiations that challenge dichotomies between male and female maternal and paternal and private and public Public History Private Stories is a compelling exploration of the disparate identities created by these women through the act of writing autobiography
