Southey at Merthyr Behind me the brazen glare of Dowlais iron works lit up the sky and in front twinkled the many lights of the Welsh town For two hours my wife and I had sat within listening to the whispering voices of the dead voices which are so full of earnest life and of desperate endeavours to pierce the barrier of our dull senses They had quivered and wavered around us giving us pet names sweet sacred things the intimate talk of the olden time Graceful lights signs of spirit power had hovered over us in the darkness It was a different and a wonderful world Now with those voices still haunting our memories we had slipped out into the material world a world of glaring iron works and of twinkling cottage windows As I looked down on it all I grasped my wife s hand in the darkness and I cried aloud My God if they only knew if they could only know Perhaps in that cry wrung from my very soul lay the inception of my voyage to the other side of the world The wish to serve was strong upon us both God had given us wonderful signs and they were surely not for ourselves alone I had already done the little I might From the moment that I had understood the overwhelming importance of this subject and realised how utterly it must change and chasten the whole thought of the world when it is whole heartedly accepted I felt it good to work in the matter and understood that all other work which I had ever done or could ever do was as nothing compared to this Therefore from the time that I had finished the history of the Great War on which I was engaged I was ready to turn all my remaining energies of voice or hand to the one great end At first I had little of my own to narrate and my task was simply to expound the spiritual philosophy as worked out by the thoughts and experiences of others showing folk so far as I was able that the superficial and ignorant view taken of it in the ordinary newspapers did not touch the heart of the matter My own experiences were limited and inconclusive so that it was the evidence of others which I quoted But as I went forward signs were given in profusion to me also such signs as were far above all error or deception so that I was able to speak with that more vibrant note which comes not from belief or faith but from personal experience and knowledge
