caricatures that marginalized and burlesqued them and emphasized their comic or servile behavior By contrast race films that is movies that were black cast black oriented and viewed primarily by black audiences in segregated theaters attempted to counter the crude stereotyping and regressive representations by presenting more authentic racial portrayals This volume examines race filmmaking from numerous perspectives By reanimating a critical but neglected period of early cinema the years between the turn of the century and 1930 the end of the silent film era it provides a fascinating look at the efforts of early race film pioneers and offers a vibrant portrait of race and racial representation in American film and culture Fade In, Crossroads Robert Jackson, 2017

Fade In, Crossroads Robert Jackson, 2017 Fade In Crossroads is a history of the relations between black and white southerners and films from the silent era to midcentury It illustrates how the rise and fall of the American film industry coincided with that of the South's most important modern product and export Jim Crow segregation Race in American Film Daniel Bernardi, Michael Green, 2017-07-07 This expansive three volume set investigates racial representation in film providing an authoritative cross section of the most racially significant films actors directors and movements in American cinematic history Hollywood has always reflected current American cultural norms and ideas As such film provides a window into attitudes about race and ethnicity over the last century This comprehensive set provides information on hundreds of films chosen based on scholarly consensus of their importance regarding the subject examining aspects of race and ethnicity in American film through the historical context themes and people involved This three volume set highlights the most important films and artists of the era identifying films actors or characterizations that were considered racist were tremendously popular or hugely influential attempted to be progressive or some combination thereof Readers will not only learn basic information about each subject but also be able to contextualize it culturally historically and in terms of its reception to understand what average moviegoers thought about the subject at the time of its popularity and grasp how the subject is perceived now through the lens of history Outside America Dan Moos, 2005 A new study of those excluded from the national narrative of the West Dan Moos challenges both traditional and revisionist perspectives in his exploration of the role of the mythology of the American West in the creation of a national identity While Moos concurs with contemporary scholars who note that the myths of the American West depended in part upon the exclusion of certain groups African Americans Native Americans and Mormons he notes that many scholars in their eagerness to identify and validate such excluded positions have given short shrift to the cultural power of the myths they seek to debunk That cultural power was such Moos notes that these disenfranchised groups themselves sought to harness it to their own ends through the active appropriation of the terms of those myths in advocating for their own inclusion in the national narrative that because the construction of American culture was never designed to accommodate these outsiders their writings display a division between their imagined place in the narrative of the nation and their effacement within the real West marked by intolerance and inequality

Fire and Desire Jane M. Gaines, 2017-12-29 In the silent era American cinema was defined by two separate and parallel industries with white and black companies producing films for their respective segregated audiences Jane Gaines's highly anticipated new book reconsiders the race films of this era with an ambitious historical and theoretical agenda Fire and Desire offers a penetrating look at the black independent film movement during the silent period Gaines traces the profound influence that D W Griffith's racist epic The Birth of a Nation exerted on black filmmakers such as Oscar Micheaux the director of the newly recovered Within Our Gates Beginning with What Happened in the Tunnel a movie that played with race and sex taboos by featuring the first interracial kiss in film Gaines also explores the cinematic constitution of self and other through surprise encounters James Baldwin sees himself in the face of Bette Davis family resemblance is read in Richard S Robert's portrait of an interracial family and black film pioneer George P Johnson looks back on Micheaux Given the impossibility of purity and the co implication of white and black Fire and Desire ultimately questions the category of race movies itself
