Our Continent Our Future African Perspectives On Structural Adjustment:

Our Continent, Our Future P. Thandika Mkandawire, Charles Chukwuma Soludo, 1999 Our Continent Our Future African perspectives on structural adjustment Our Continent, Our Future P. Thandika Mkandawire, Charles Chukwuma Soludo, 1999 The emerging African perspective on the complex issue of structural adjustment is here analysed It answers the major challenge for Africans themselves to lead the reform process which has been dominated by external ideas and models The editors two of Africa's top scholars provide a succinct yet comprehensive synthesis of the adjustment debate from a truly African perspective supported by thirty individual studies twenty five of which are from top economists and scholars from every corner of Africa For decades now many African countries have implemented the structural adjustment programs of the Bretton Woods Institution And yet extreme poverty and underdevelopment continue to plague what is becoming the world's forgotten continent Responding to this need for a new approach from within the editors articulate a path for the future underscoring the need to be sensitive to each other's unique history and current condition They argue for a broader policy agenda and for a much more active role for the state within what is largely a market economy African Economies and the Politics of Permanent Crisis, 1979-1999 Nicolas Van de Walle, 2001-09-24 This Book explains why African countries have remained mired in a disastrous economic crisis since the late 1970s It shows that dynamics internal to African state structures largely explain this failure to overcome economic difficulties rather than external pressures on these same structures as is often argued Far from being prevented from undertaking reforms by societal interest and pressure groups clientelism within the state elite ideological factors and low state capacity have resulted in some limited reform but much prevarication and manipulation of the reform process by governments which do not really believe that reform will be effective Africa and Asia in Comparative Economic Perspective P. Lawrence, C. Thirtle, 2001-05-14 This invaluable collection compares the relatively unsuccessful economic development of Sub-Saharan Africa with that of the successful Asian economies especially the Asian tigers It covers three main areas of comparison the lessons for Africa from the Asian experience secondly the comparisons of various aspects of economic development in Africa and Asia and finally convergence how far the laggard economies are catching up with or diverging away from each other The Oxford Handbook of Africa and Economics Célestin Monga, Justin Yifu Lin, 2015-07-02 A popular myth about the travails of Africa holds that the continent's long history of poor economic performance reflects the inability of its leaders and policymakers to fulfill the long list of preconditions to be met before sustained growth can be achieved These conditions are said to vary from the necessary quantity and quality of physical and human capital to the appropriate institutions and business environments While intellectually charming and often elegantly formulated that conventional wisdom is actually contradicted by historical evidence and common sense It also suggests a form of intellectual mimicry that posits a unique path to prosperity for all countries regardless of their level of development and economic structure In fact the argument underlining that reasoning is

tautological and the policy prescriptions derived from it are fatally teleological low income countries are by definition those where such ingredients are missing None of today s high income countries started its growth process with the required and complete list of growth ingredients Unless one truly believes that the continent of Africa and most developing countries are ruled predominantly if not exclusively by plutocrats with a high propensity for sadomasochism the conventional view must be re examined debated and questioned This volume the second of the IOxford Handbook of Africa and Economics reassesses the economic policies and practices observed across the continent since independence It offers a collection of analyses by some of the leading economists and development thinkers of our time and reflects a wide range of perspectives and viewpoints Africa s emergence as a potential economic powerhouse in the years and decades ahead amply justifies the scope and ambition of the book Gendered Insecurities, Health and Development in Africa Howard Stein,Amal

Fadlalla,2012-08-21 The concept of security has often narrowly focused on issues surrounding the protection of national borders from outside threats However a richer idea of human security has become increasingly important in the past decade or so The aim is to incorporate various dimensions of the downside risks affecting the generalized well being or dignity of people Despite this rising prominence the discourses surrounding human security have neglected to address the topic of gender particularly how issues of poverty and underdevelopment impact women s and men s experiences and strategies differently Since its introduction in the 1994 UNDP Human Development report the idea of human security has become increasingly influential among academics and international development practitioners However gendered dimensions of human security have not attracted enough attention despite their vital importance Women are disproportionately more vulnerable to disease and other forms of human insecurity due to differences in entitlement empowerment and an array of other ecological and socio economic factors These gendered insecurities are inextricably linked to poverty and as a result the feminization of poverty is a growing phenomenon worldwide The contributors to this volume rely on a gender focused analysis to consider a number of issues central to human security and development in Africa including food security environmental health risks discrimination within judicial and legal systems gendered aspects of HIV AIDS transmission and treatment technologies neoliberalism and poverty alleviation strategies and conflict and women s political activism The gender focus of this volume points to the importance of power relationships and policy variability underlying human insecurities in the African context The insights of this book offer the potential for an improved human security framework one that embraces a more complex and context specific analysis of the issues of risk and vulnerability therefore expanding the capacities of the human security framework to safeguard the livelihoods of the most vulnerable populations The Evolving Structure of South Africa's Economy Seeraj Mohamed,Amuzweni Ngoma,2024-01-23 South Africa still faces low economic growth and high unemployment coupled with the persistent challenges of poverty and inequality These exert pressure on South Africa to foster structural transformation that will facilitate a more inclusive and resilient economy Authors apply multiple theoretical and empirical perspectives to take stock of the historical and contemporary structure of the South African economy its evolving nature and possible future pathways The explore how South Africa s structural transformation agenda is affected by the global context and discuss debates on the extreme social impacts of globalised and financialised economic structures Contributors offer technical and analytical discussions of the overlapping structural faultlines that produce uneven economic performance They explain the changes and continuities of South Africa s economic structure bound by an analytical thread that centres power relations and political settlements Varied chapters explain how poor governance and corruption have slowed down structural reform This has been further exacerbated by the inconsistent availability of energy and the deterioration of logistics The book details the structural reforms and policy regimes necessary for increasing productive capacity in South Africa s agriculture manufacturing agro processing retail and services energy and mining industries It also reflects on the role that micro and informal enterprises can play if afforded the necessary support The technical details and analyses in the book highlight the need for a radical review of macroeconomic policy to reduce the country s chronic vulnerability to poverty and inequality

New Directions in Africa-China Studies Chris Alden, Daniel Large, 2018-07-17 Interest in China and Africa is growing exponentially Taking a step back from the events driven reactions characterizing much coverage this timely book reflects more deeply on questions concerning how this subject has been is being and can be studied It offers a comprehensive multi disciplinary and authoritative contribution to Africa China studies Its diverse chapters explore key current research themes and debates such as agency media race ivory development or security using a variety of case studies from Benin Kenya and Tanzania to Angola Mozambique and Mauritius Looking back it explores the evolution of studies about Africa and China Looking forward it explores alternative future possibilities for a complex and constantly evolving subject Showcasing a range of perspectives by leading and emerging scholars New Directions in Africa China Studies is an essential resource for students and scholars of Africa and China relations

Contemporary Africa Matthew Graham, 2018-10-12 This textbook offers a critical introduction to the study of Africa drawing on scholarship from a range of academic disciplines A comprehensive discussion of the continent s geography and history provides a backdrop to broad ranging coverage of its social economic political and cultural composition as well as its future prospects Moreover moving beyond the all too common tendency to view Africa as a single homogeneous entity Graham provides a nuanced overview that challenges preconceptions and stereotypes Written in a sophisticated yet accessible style and supported by a range of pedagogical features this book introduces undergraduate students from a range of different disciplinary backgrounds to the contemporary study of Africa

Imagining Neoliberal Globalization in Contemporary World Fiction Michael Walonen, 2018-04-27 We are in the midst of the third tectonic social transformation in human history Our current transition toward greater forms of transnational interconnection consumption and finance driven rather than production based capitalism digital information and cultural flows and the attendant large scale social and ecological consequences of these are drastically remaking our world cultural producers from across the globe are seeking to make sense of and provide insights into these complex changes Imagining Neoliberal Globalization in Contemporary World Fiction takes a broad cross cultural approach to analyzing the literature of our increasingly transnationalized world system considering how its key constituent features and local level manifestations have been thematized and imaginatively seized upon by literary fiction produced from the perspective of the periphery of the capitalist world system Textual renderings of globalization are not simply second order approximations of it but constitutive elements of globalization that condition how it will be understood and responded to and so coming to terms with the narrativizations of globalization is vital scholarly work as among other things it allows us to see to what extent it is currently possible to imagine alternatives to globalization's more baleful aspects This work will be of interest to students and scholars across a range of areas including contemporary literary cultural studies globalization studies international relations and international political economy
