environmental paradigm within which design research based on computational constructions can be carried out Design research can be carried out in variety of ways It can be viewed as largely an empirical endeavour in which experiments are designed and executed in order to test some hypothesis about some design phenomenon or design behaviour This is the approach adopted in cognitive science It often manifests itself through the use of protocol studies of designers The results of such research form the basis of a computational model A second view is that design research can be carried out by positing axioms and then deriving consequences from them Diachronic, areal, and typological Linguistics Henry M.
