Axles, Drive Shafts, Wheels and Tires

5.3.2 Installing Offroad and Tire Assembly onto Machine

Note: The wheel and tire assembly must be installed with the drive shaft (axle) "center" facing in the direction of forward travel.

1. Position wheel onto axle at wheel end of axle.
2. Install wheel assembly.
3. Check alignment of wheel to ensure proper tracking. DO NOT use a ball joint or tie rod in turn.

4. Tighten lug nuts in an alternating pattern, as indicated in figure. Torque to 800-1000 ft-lb (1070-1360 Nm).
5. Remove machine from supports.

5.6 BRAKES

Check the brake shoes for wear every 1,000 hours of operation or yearly.
For more information on brake shoe inspection, refer to the appropriate wear report manual.

5.7 TOWING A DISABLED MACHINE

Towing a disabled machine should only be attempted as a last resort, after exhausting all other options. Make every effort to repair the machine, and make it safer to tow (power, lights, etc.) using the following towing procedures outlined below.

Note: Block the wheels of the machine BEING towed to immobilize the park brake. Check the park brake to ensure that the machine's park brake will function properly and appropriately.

5.7.1 Manually Releasing the Park Brake

- a. Remove the cotter pin.

1. On one side of the axle, remove the brake plug from the differential housing.
2. Tighten each wheel axle nut (indicated by the plug) tightly until you feel tension contact with the guide pin.
3. Carefully tighten each wheel axle nut a 1/4 turn at a time or approximately until an inner road wheel turns over without slip.

Note: A large torque load (up to 1000 ft-lb) is used and should be used before (DO NOT) over-tighten.

- a. Repeat steps 1-3 for the other side of the differential.

General Catalogue of the Public Library of Detroit, Mich. First-third Supplement. 1889-1903: 1894-1898 Detroit Public Library, 1899 Ballast Water Treatment and Exchange for Ships Alexander Olsen, Pamela Rossi Ciampolini, 2024-05-14 The inadvertent transfer of harmful aquatic organisms and pathogens in the ballast water of ships has been determined to have caused a significant adverse impact to many of the world s coastal regions The international maritime community under the auspices of the IMO has developed several documents including the International Conventions for the Control and Management of Ship s Ballast Water and Sediments 2004 Ballast Water Management Convention which are aimed at preventing the introduction of unwanted aquatic organisms and pathogens through the discharge of ballast water and sediments The Ballast Water Management Convention applies to vessels registered in a country which is party to the Convention and to those vessels registered in other countries when operating in the waters of a country which is party to the Convention As a means to prevent minimize and ultimately eliminate the risk to the environment human health property and resources arising from the transfer of harmful aquatic organisms and pathogens through the control and management of vessel s ballast water and sediment as well as to avoid unwanted side effects from that control the Convention requires vessels to conduct a ballast water exchange or be fitted with an approved ballast water management system It is noted that several studies have shown that the effectiveness of ballast water exchange varies and is dependent on the vessel type design exchange method sequential flow through and dilution methods ballasting system configuration exchange location weather conditions and vessel s trading pattern For these reasons and others it has been determined that ballast water exchange does not provide adequate protective measures to prevent damage from organisms and pathogens carried in a vessel s ballast even though exchange was considered to be acceptable as an interim solution This book includes updates for the clarification of Survey requirements and adds the definition of biological commissioning testing as well as requirements for Class approved Service Providers to conduct biological commissioning testing Moreover this book includes updates due to the adoption of the requirements from IACS UR M74 Rev 2 and UR F45 and is applicable for existing ships where an application for approval for the plans of BWMS is made on or after 1 July 2022 or for new ships contracted for construction on or after 1 July 2022
