Postmodernity Postmodernity:

The Origins of Postmodernity Perry Anderson, 1998-09-17 Traces the genesis consolidation and consequences of the postmodern idea Beginning in the Hispanic world of the 1930s the text takes the reader through to the 70s when Lyotard and Habermas gave the idea of postmodernism wider currency and finally the 90s with the work of Fredric Jameson

Postmodernity's Musical Pasts Tina Frühauf, 2020 Postmodernity's Musical Pasts covers topics from classical to popular and neo traditional musics to concerns of the disciplines of musicology Such varied topics mirror the eclectic and diverse nature of the postwar era itself

Postmodern Media Culture Jonathan Bignell, 2007-12-13 The book deals with film television information technology consumer products and popular literature and assesses challenges to conceptions of the postmodern based on gender race and religion

Nihilism and the Sublime Postmodern William Slocumbe, 2013-11-05 This book examines the relationship between nihilism and postmodernism in relation to the sublime and is divided into three parts history theory and praxis Arguing against the simplistic division in literary criticism between nihilism and the sublime the book demonstrates that both are clearly implicated with the Enlightenment Postmodernism as a product of the Enlightenment is therefore implicitly related to both nihilism and the sublime despite the fact that it is often characterised as either nihilistic or sublime Whereas prior forms of nihilism are modernist because they seek to codify reality postmodernism creates a new formulation of nihilism postmodern nihilism that is itself sublime This is explored in relation to a broad survey of postmodern literature in two chapters the first on aesthetics and the second on ethics It offers a coherent thesis for reappraising the relationship between nihilism and the sublime and grounds this argument with frequent references to postmodern literature making it a book suitable for both researchers and those more generally interested in postmodern literature

Postmodern Spain Antonio Sánchez, 2007 Postmodern Spain examines the cultural transformation experienced by Spanish society during the late 1980s and 1990s By looking at specific aspects of culture the representation of the human subject the past and the transformation of the city this book critically re assesses the validity of postmodernism in Spain Focusing on the novels written by Juan Goytisolo during this period this book examines the representation and development of the human subject and its identification with the marginalized other's It further analyses various representations of the Spanish Civil War challenging the prevalent view of post Franco Spain as suffering from amnesia and thereby vindicates postmodern historical representations as a valid dialogue with the past The third chapter examines Barcelona's urban redevelopment analysing the transformation effected in some of its popular sites as a postmodern re formulation of the city as a fluid flexible public space Finally it brings its previous findings to bear on an analysis of the Barcelona 1992 Olympic Games It argues that these celebrations constituted a performance of Spain's new cultural identity designed for global national and local consumption Thus these cultural celebrations corroborated the emergence of postmodernism as a cultural dominant which has exceeded modern and pre modern cultural practices while paradoxically containing and enhancing both A Postmodern Reader Joseph P. Natoli, Linda Hutcheon, 1993-01-01 These readings are organized into four sections The first explores the wellsprings of the debates in the relationship between the postmodern and the enterprise it both continues and contravenes modernism Here philosophers social and political commentators as well as cultural and literary analysts present controversial background essays on the complex history of postmodernism The readings in the second section debate the possibility or desirability of trying to define the postmodern given its cultural agenda of decentering challenging even undermining the guiding master narratives of Western culture The readings in the third section explore postmodernism's complicated complicity with these very narratives while the fourth section moves from theory to practice in order to investigate in a variety of fields the common denominators of the postmodern condition in action

Postmodern Climate Change Leigh Glover, 2007-01-24 A much needed analysis of international climate change politics as a key issue of modernity and in the context of environmentalism Leigh Glover presents a new way to understand the climate change problem and is concerned with problems of modernity and postmodernity in the context of contemporary environmental thought Focusing on the international politics surrounding the UN agreement of climate change the Framework Convention on Climate Change and its Kyoto Protocol Glover examines the issue using the key aspects of climate change science global environmental politics and global environmental management Modernization and

Postmodernization Ronald Inglehart, 2020-06-30 Ronald Inglehart argues that economic development cultural change and political change go together in coherent and even to some extent predictable patterns This is a controversial claim It implies that some trajectories of socioeconomic change are more likely than others and consequently that certain changes are foreseeable Once a society has embarked on industrialization for example a whole syndrome of related changes from mass mobilization to diminishing differences in gender roles is likely to appear These changes in worldviews seem to reflect changes in the economic and political environment but they take place with a generational time lag and have considerable autonomy and momentum of their own But industrialization is not the end of history Advanced industrial society leads to a basic shift in values de-emphasizing the instrumental rationality that characterized industrial society Postmodern values then bring new societal changes including democratic political institutions and the decline of state socialist regimes To demonstrate the powerful links between belief systems and political and socioeconomic variables this book draws on a unique database the World Values Surveys This database covers a broader range than ever before available for looking at the impact of mass publics on political and social life It provides information from societies representing 70 percent of the world's population from societies with per capita incomes as low as 300 per year to those with per capita incomes one hundred times greater and from long established democracies with market economies to authoritarian states Coping with

Postmodernity Martin Villwock, 2011-06-08 Examination Thesis from the year 2008 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Pedagogy Literature Studies grade 1 3 University of Cologne Englisches Seminar language English abstract In the following chapter of this paper an outline of the present ontological crisis in terms of Lyotard's postmodern condition will be given. Throughout the discussion of Coupland's fiction this concept will be relevant for its influence on the characters' thoughts and emotions. Furthermore, the chapter will analyze the importance and self-referentiality of narrative structures in Coupland's work. The characters in Coupland's novels often come up with a plentitude of more or less successful strategies in order to deal with the semantic void they experience. For this chapter material will be presented predominantly from the novels All Families are Psychotic, Generation X and Microserfs. The third chapter will focus on the presentation of working life in Coupland's prose. His novels reveal that work today has lost its former function as a source of orientation. In this analysis the concept of alienation as introduced by Karl Marx will be used in order to grasp the nature of the conflict that the characters experience in their working lives in Coupland's novels. The chapter will focus on the presentation of working life in Generation X, Microserfs and Shampoo Planet. A fourth chapter will introduce yet a further source of disorientation: the hyperreality constituted by the media. Here Baudrillard's observations (1983 and 1994) will serve as a starting point in a discussion of the experience of the hyperreal and the possibility of contact with the real in Coupland's work. Again material will be presented from the novels Generation X, Microserfs and Shampoo Planet. The subsequent chapter will consider the important role that irony plays in several of the analyzed novels. Douglas Coupland particularly in his first novels impresses his readers with a smart and thoroughly ironic tone. In his later novels, however, he is deliberately trying to establish a more sincere language mirrored by his characters' desire to embark on a sincere quest for meaning. The functions of the presentation of the different forms of disorientation and re-orientation will be at the center of my discussion of Coupland's fiction.
