Nordic Lessons Nordic Lights:

Nordic Lights Sirkka Ahonen, Jukka Rantala, 2001 The democratic model of education is often hailed as Norden's present to the world. However, when faced with the rules of market economy and the aspirations of the new middle classes, popular education came into crisis. In this book, the past and the present of the Nordic model is studied by nine scholars from Estonia, Finland, Sweden, and Norway. They question its viability as well as the credibility of its official history. Northern Lights on Civic and Citizenship Education Heidi Biseth, Bryony Hoskins, Lihong Huang, 2021-02-26 This open access book presents an in-depth analysis of data from ICCS. An international group of scholars critically address the state of civic and citizenship education in the four Nordic countries that participated in the IEA International Civic and Citizenship Education Study (ICCS) in 2009 and 2016. The findings are of particular relevance to educators at all levels, from school education through to teacher education. Nordic countries have long traditions of democracy, and their students have performed relatively well in the ICCS assessments. Nonetheless, citizenship education continues to evolve and has received increasing attention in recent educational reforms, indicating policymakers' understanding that schools play an important role in establishing democratic values among future citizens. Data from ICCS can be used to analyze, discuss, and reflect on the status of civic and citizenship education and can contribute to the discourse on the potential role of education in contributing to sustainable democracies for a common future. However, teaching citizenship and learning democracy are two different things. While young people can be taught about democracy in school, it is vital that schools work together with the wider community in which youth operate to strengthen civic understanding and values for all young people, regardless of their social and economic background. Lost in Practice: Transforming Nordic Educational Action Research Karin Rönnerman, Petri Salo, 2014-11-04 Lost in Practice offers a further development of the notion of Nordic educational action research as described in an earlier volume, Nurturing praxis (2008), aiming to deepen and enrich understandings of the Nordic educational tradition and its various practices. It explores Nordic traditions and theories such as bildung, practical knowledge, regime, and translation theory, with the aim of furthering a seminal conversation between practice theory and action research. Furthermore, it illuminates the use of these theories in the context of Nordic countries by presenting a number of case studies on professional development practices in which specific forms and arenas for enhancing dialogue and meaning-making are in focus. The practices of study and research circles, peer group mentoring, and dialogue conferences as developed in the Nordic countries throughout the 20th century are presented and discussed both in terms of established traditions and of practices of collaborative development. The book also reflects on the regional traditions and educational practices in the Nordic countries, which are reflected on in the third part of the book. The volume addresses teachers at all levels in the educational system, particularly those who are interested in understanding educational action research and furthering collaborative forms of professional development based on insights from different traditions for understanding and furthering the development of educational practices without getting lost The Swedish Missionary Society and Sámi Schooling, c. 1835-1920 Björn Norlin, Scrutinising the Nordic Dimension in Education John Benedicto Krejsler, 2024-08-08 This edited volume scrutinises the Nordic dimension within education and how this notion affects frames and sets direction for school and education in policy practice and educational research The book interrogates what unites and divides Denmark Finland Iceland Norway and Sweden and analyses how the notion of the Nordic dimension has become conceptualised and institutionalised in different educational settings Comparative studies of national education policies and practice across these five small North European countries and Scotland as a case beyond explore how the Nordic dimension relates to national regional and transnational collaborations Further the book queries the degree to which what are typically considered Nordic approaches to social welfare gender equality diversity and international outlook have in actual fact affected education Ultimately the book explores the realities and myths associated with the idea of the Nordic dimension and in relation to the wider context of integration within the European region The book will be of interest to researchers scholars and postgraduate students working in international and comparative education education policy and politics teaching and learning and in European cultural studies What Works in Nordic School Policies? John Benedicto Krejsler, Lejf Moos, 2021-03-23 This book offers an original contribution to the area of international research on comparative education policies and the influence of transnational agencies on national school policy and reform With a focus on grasping what the Nordic model or the Nordic dimension means in school and educational policy the book explores in depth the school policy contexts of the five Nordic countries Denmark Finland Iceland Norway and Sweden It demonstrates how these particular national contexts engage with and contextualize transnational collaboration on issues like school reform accountability evidence and what works and digitalization The book situates these policy issues over a long period of time while integrating the latest developments and reforms It demonstrates how context matters It shows how the often elusive but pervasive Nordic dimension can only be fully understood by painstaking scrutiny of the five national contexts their particular trajectories and mutual interactions in formal and informal education The Nordic Education Model Ulf Blossing, Gunn Imsen, Lejf Moos, 2013-10-21 This book presents a detailed analysis of the educational model in Nordic European countries It describes the traditional idea of education for all which can be characterized by the right for every child to have an education of equal quality in a common school for all pupils regardless of social class abilities gender or ethnicity Against this background The Nordic Education Model traces the rise of neo liberal policies that have been enacted by those who believe the School for All ideology does not produce the knowledge and skills that students need to succeed in an increasingly competitive and global marketplace It examines the conflict between these two ideas and shows how neo liberal technologies affect the Nordic model in different ways The authors also show how social technologies are being interpreted in different ways in actual school practices This process of translating national regulations into internal sense builds on the values in the culture to which they are introduced In the end this book reveals that a Nordic model can constitute a delicate balance between traditional values institutionalized practices and contemporary neo liberal forms of governance and policies It may be argued from a new institutional perspective that the main structures of the Nordic educational model will sustain as long as the deeply rooted Nordic culture survives in the globalised society
