Of Cocktails And Penguins A Summer In Antarctica From Behind The Bar:

Of Cocktails and Penguins Tanja Plasil, 2014-08-20 Of Cocktails and Penguins is based on my experiences accumulated during eight trips working on a cruise ship in Antarctica While most people put a lot of time and effort into planning a trip to the icy continent I ended up serving cocktails on the high seas quite by coincidence Working seven days a week twenty hours a day was not all I did down there From behind the bar and during landings I kept observing those whom I was serving These insights into the curious behaviour of both man and animal combined with some facts and information about the continent its inhabitants and its exploration are bundled into a hilarious book that will take the reader on a very special journey This book offers glimpses into the reality of working on a cruise ship where privacy is non existent the days are long and the pay low It also shows how much fun working on a ship can be as long as one takes it with a smile The reader will take part in the adventures I had during these cold months You will go camping on the ice have close encounters with whales and penguins visit research stations drink a toast to Shackleton and enjoy a shopping trip on the Falkland Islands This all adds up to a funny informative and inspiring real life reading experience that brings you closer to this beautiful and fascinating place

Antarctic News Clips ,1995 Empire Antarctica Gavin Francis, 2014-08-26 Gavin Francis fulfilled a lifetime s ambition when he spent fourteen months as the basecamp doctor at Halley a profoundly isolated British research station on the Caird Coast of Antarctica So remote it is said to be easier to evacuate a casualty from the International Space Station than it is to bring someone out of Halley in winter Antarctica offered a year of unparalleled silence and solitude with few distractions and a very little human history but also a rare opportunity to live among emperor penguins the only species truly at home in he Antarctic Following Penguins throughout the year from a summer of perpetual sunshine to months of winter darkness Gavin Francis explores the world of great beauty conjured from the simplest of elements the hardship of living at 50 c below zero and the unexpected comfort that the penguin community bring Empire Antarctica is the story of one man and his fascination with the world s loneliest continent as well as the emperor penguins who weather the winter with him Combining an evocative narrative with a sublime sensitivity to the natural world this is travel writing at its very best New Scientist and Science Journal ,1996-04 Breaking the Ice: Antarctica, climate change and me Professor David Vaughan, 2024-05-16 Antarctica fascinates us with its awe inspiring beauty wildlife and tales of the heroic age of exploration Often described as the last frontier this frozen continent is critical to all life on earth Professor David Vaughan shares the excitement of his first trip to Antarctica his passion for the ice and his 40 year quest to solve a scientific conundrum is the West Antarctic Ice Sheet stable and will climate change drive it into irreversible retreat For the first time we go behind the scenes to discover what it takes to undertake polar research This is a gripping memoir by a pioneer in Antarctic science who did so much to uncover and communicate the rapid changes taking place on Earth s southernmost continent There are fascinating funny and startling stories from forty years of expeditions taking scientific measurements in this most chilly and remote of environments And there are insightful and moving reflections on the nature of planetary change and the inadequate political response on collaborating across boundaries for the common good and on facing a terminal diagnosis Professor Peter Stott MBE Professor in Detection and Attribution University of Exeter and Science Fellow Met Office Author of Hot Air New Scientist, 1996 North or South Yves Earhart, AI, 2025-01-26 North or South Life at the Poles explores the Arctic and Antarctic as vastly different frontiers of survival biodiversity and climate vulnerability While both regions endure extreme cold and darkness the book reveals how their ecosystems and human impacts diverge dramatically The Arctic a frozen ocean ringed by continents shelters land mammals like polar bears and Indigenous communities whereas Antarctica a continent surrounded by ocean thrives with marine life like emperor penguins untouched by permanent human settlements This contrast stems from millions of years of geological and evolutionary history challenging the myth that the poles are ecological twins The book emphasizes how climate change and resource exploitation destabilize these regions in distinct ways Arctic sea ice crucial for wildlife and Indigenous livelihoods melts faster due to atmospheric warming while Antarctic ice loss hinges more on shifting ocean currents Unlike the industrialized Arctic Antarctica faces threats from krill overfishing and tourism North or South stands out by weaving climate science with Indigenous knowledge such as Inuit observations of thinning ice to argue for tailored conservation policies Structured in three sections it progresses from ecological basics to human driven threats finally proposing solutions like marine protected areas and Indigenous led stewardship By comparing poles side by side the book uncovers paradoxes some Arctic species adapt by expanding ranges while Antarctic endemics face extinction Its interdisciplinary approach blending geopolitics biology and fieldwork offers a nuanced lens on protecting these critical fragile ecosystems Emperor Penguins Gloria Clifford, 2008-12-18 Life is an adventure I am sure you have heard this said many times Well for me it is a fact I have traveled the world In all my travels this expedition was the most memorable it is a trip that few will take I want to share with you my love of penguins and Antarctica so you too will feel you have seen Antarctica through my eyes That is why I have produced my film The sea was rough I would not recommend this trip to anyone with motion sickness I do not get seasick and I had the confidence in Kapitan Khlebnikov that it was sea worthy It was like riding a horse that had never been broken You never know what to expect of the seas of Antarctica They are the roughest in the world The next cruise was smoother For those of you who will never go to Antarctica this book is for you I want to share the experience with the world Two + Two = Five Dolly Rice, 2013-02 An atomic view into the private life of Larry Sietsma former USMC fighter pilot airline pilot founder of two nationally acclaimed home building companies and winner of the coveted Entrepreneur of the Year Award More than twenty thousand homes have been built from Larry s designs In 2003 Larry flew around the world in his twin engine Beechcraft Baron alone with his wife Sherry and two huge auxiliary fuel tanks Full of adventure he nonetheless manages to leave his indelible personal mark on all he touches In this biographical memoir the author felt a strong compulsion to tell of her extraordinary brother All who know him already agree that Larry is exceptional But is he just lucky Charmed Driven Look inside and see the makeup of this man You will see that greatness is not measured by what you have or what you have done but by the person you are

Antarctica David Day,2013-01-24 For centuries it was suspected that there must be an undiscovered continent in the southern hemisphere But explorers failed to find one On his second voyage to the Pacific Captain Cook sailed further south than any of his rivals but still failed to sight land It was not until 1820 that the continent's frozen coast was finally sighted Territorial rivalry intensified in the 1840s when British American and French expeditions sailed south to chart further portions of the continent that had come to be called Antarctica For the nearly two centuries since the race to claim exclusive possession of Antarctica has gripped the imagination of the world Antarctica A Biography is the first ever major international history of this forbidding continent from the eighteenth century voyages of discovery to the fierce rivalries of today as governments scientists environmentalists and oil companies compete for control On one level it is the story of explorers battling the elements in the most hostile place on earth as they strive for personal triumph commercial gain and national glory On a deeper level it is the story of nations seeking to incorporate the Antarctic into their own national stories and to claim its frozen wastes as their own
