Through Investments in the Built Environment National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine,Health and Medicine Division,Food and Nutrition Board,Roundtable on Obesity Solutions,2018-06-14 The built environment the physical world made up of the homes buildings streets and infrastructure within which people live work and play underwent changes

during the 20th and 21st centuries that contributed to a sharp decline in physical activity and affected access to healthy foods Those developments contributed in turn to the weight gain observed among Americans in recent decades Many believe therefore that policies and practices that affect the built environment could affect obesity rates in the United States and improve the health of Americans The National Academies of Sciences Engineering and Medicine convened a workshop in September 2017 to improve understanding of the roles played by the built environment in the prevention and treatment of obesity and to identify promising strategies in multiple sectors that can be scaled up to create more healthful and equitable environments This publication summarizes the presentations and discussions from the workshop
