British Romanticism and the Archive David Kerler, 2022-06-06 Taking its cue from Jacques Derrida's concept of le mal d'archive this study explores the interrelations between the experience of loss melancholia archives and their self destructive tendencies surfacing in different forms of spectrality in selected poetry of British Romanticism It argues that the British Romantics were highly influenced by the period's archival fever manifesting itself in various historical material technological and cultural aspects and implicitly reflected and engaged with these discourses and materialities medialities in their works This is scrutinized by focusing on two basal closely related facets the subject's feverish desire to archive and the archive's self destructive tendencies which may also surface in an ambivalent melancholic relishing in the archived object's presence within its absence Through this new theoretical perspective details and coherence previously gone unnoticed shall be laid bare ultimately contributing to a new and more profound understanding of British Romanticism's It will be shown that the various discursive and material manifestations of archives and archival practices not only echo the period's technological cultural and historical developments along with its incisive experiencing of loss but also fundamentally determine Romantic subjectivity and aesthetics

The Anthropocene Seth T. Reno, 2021-11-22 Perhaps no concept has become dominant in so many fields as rapidly as the Anthropocene Meaning The Age of Humans the Anthropocene is the proposed name for our current geological epoch beginning when human activities started to have a noticeable impact on Earth's geology and ecosystems Long embraced by the natural sciences the Anthropocene has now become commonplace in the humanities and social sciences where it has taken firm enough hold to engender a thoroughgoing assessment and critique Why and how has the geological concept of the Anthropocene become important to the humanities What new approaches and insights do the humanities offer What narratives and critiques of the Anthropocene do the humanities produce What does it mean to study literature of the Anthropocene These are the central questions that this collection explores Each chapter takes a decidedly different humanist approach to the Anthropocene from environmental humanities to queer theory to race illuminating the important contributions of the humanities to the myriad discourses on the Anthropocene This volume is designed to provide concise overviews of particular approaches and texts as well as compelling and original interventions in the study of the Anthropocene Written in an accessible style free from disciplinary specific jargon many chapters focus on well known authors and texts making this collection especially useful to teachers developing a course on the Anthropocene and students undertaking introductory research This collection provides truly innovative arguments regarding how and why the Anthropocene concept is important to literature and the humanities
