Protecting Civilians Protecting Civilians:

Protecting Civilians Siobhán Wills, 2009-02-26 Historical review of civilian protection by UN peacekeepers The extent to which peacekeeping and other multi national forces have a general responsibility to protect under international humanitarian law The extent to which peacekeeping and other multi national forces have a general responsibility to protect under international human rights law The applicability of occupation law to peacekeeping and other multi national operations Implications for peacekeepers and other multi national forces

Protecting Civilians Siobhán Wills, 2009-02-26 This book examines the obligations of troops to prevent serious abuses of human rights towards civilians under international humanitarian law and international human rights law It analyses the duty to intervene to stop the commission of serious abuses of human rights by analysing the meaning and practical consequences for troops in terms of civilian protection of the Article 1 duty to respect and ensure respect for the Geneva Conventions of the duty to secure human rights found in most international human rights treaties and of the duty to restore law and order in an occupation The book also analyzes the extent of troops obligations to provide protection in light of various different operational and legal contexts in and discusses grey areas and lacuna of coverage A discussion of whether new approaches are needed for example where operations are undertaken explicitly to protect people from serious violations of their human rights follows and the book concludes by offering some guidelines for troops faced with such violations

Protecting Civilians During Violent Conflict Igor Primoratz, David W. Lovell, 2016-04-15 There is almost unanimous agreement that civilians should be protected from the direct effects of violent conflict and that the distinction between combatant and non combatant should be respected But what are the fundamental ethical questions about civilian immunity Are new styles of conflict making this distinction redundant Eloquently combining theory and practice leading scholars from the fields of political science law and philosophy have been brought together to provide an essential overview of some of the major ethical legal and political issues with regard to protecting civilians caught up in modern inter and intra state conflicts In doing so they examine what is being done and what can be done to make soldiers more aware of their responsibilities in this area under international law and the ethics of war and more able to respond appropriately to the challenges that will confront them in the field Protecting Civilians During Violent Conflict presents a clear eyed look at the dilemmas facing regular combatants as they confront enemies in the modern battlespace and especially the complications arising from the new styles of conflict where enemy and civilian populations merge

major ethical legal and political issues with regard to protecting civilians caught up in modern inter and intra state conflicts In doing so they examine what is being done and what can be done to make soldiers more aware of their responsibilities in this area under international law and the ethics of war and more able to respond appropriately to the challenges that will confront them in the field Protecting Civilians During Violent Conflict presents a clear eyed look at the dilemmas facing regular combatants as they confront enemies in the modern battlespace and especially the complications arising from the new styles of conflict where enemy and civilian populations merge Protecting Civilians in War Miriam Bradley,2016-03-03 Since the complex emergencies of the 1990s humanitarian agencies have placed increasing emphasis on the protection of civilians during armed conflict In spite of this there is a consensus among humanitarians that outcomes are falling short of intentions and that the increased emphasis on protection by humanitarian actors has failed to yield a corresponding improvement in the security of the civilian population The International Committee of the Red Cross ICRC and the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees UNHCR are two of the most important humanitarian agencies for the protection of civilians and both have protection at the heart of their mandates Protecting Civilians in War explores how organizational history structure and culture affect how each organization goes about protection and highlights the ways in which their resulting approaches to protection are inherently limited Whereas existing explanations for shortcomings in humanitarian protection tend to blame factors external to humanitarian agencies the focus of this book is on the organizations themselves and their understandings of protection While acknowledging the importance of other actors in determining the level of civilian security or insecurity the analysis in this book focuses on the ways in which the ICRC and UNHCR conceptualise and practise protection in order to add another layer to our understanding of why protection outcomes are so often so disappointing Based on research in Geneva Colombia the Democratic Republic of Congo and Myanmar it examines headquarter level policy and the way that such policy is translated into practice on the ground By all means necessary: Protecting civilians and preventing mass atrocities in Africa Dan Kuwali,Frans Viljoen,2017-05-16

Military Interventions, War Crimes, and Protecting Civilians Christi Siver,2018-04-10 War crimes have devastating effects on victims and perpetrators and endanger broader political and military goals The protection of civilians one of the most fundamental norms in the laws of war appears to have weakened despite almost universal international agreement Using insights from organizational theory this book seeks to understand the process between military socialization and unit participation in war crimes How do militaries train their soldiers in the laws of war How do they enforce compliance with these laws Drawing on evidence from the Korean War the Malayan Emergency and the Canadian peacekeeping mission in Somalia the author discovers that military efforts to train soldiers about the laws of war are poor and leadership often sent mixed signals about the importance of compliance However units that developed subcultures that embraced these laws and had strong leadership were more likely to comply than those with weak discipline or countercultural norms Protecting

Civilians in Refugee Camps Maja Janmyr, 2013-11-28 Rather than serving as civilian and humanitarian safe havens refugee camps are notorious for their insecurity Due to the host state s inability or unwillingness to provide protection camps are often administered by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees UNHCR and its implementing partners When a violation occurs in these situations to which actors shall responsibility be allocated Through an analysis of the International Law Commission s work on international responsibility Maja Janmyr argues that the primary responsibility of states does not exclude the responsibilities of other actors Using the example of Uganda Janmyr questions the general assumption that unable and unwilling is the same as unable or unwilling and argues for the necessity of distinguishing between these two scenarios Doing so leads to different conclusions in terms of responsibility for the state and therefore for UNHCR and its implementing partners
