The Power of Specificity in Psychotherapy Howard A. Bacal, Lucyann Carlton, 2010-12-28 In The Power of Specificity in Psychotherapy When Therapy Works And When It Doesn t Howard Bacal presents specificity theory a contemporary process theory of psychotherapy that holds that therapy happens at the fit

between the patient's particular therapeutic needs and the therapist's capacity to respond to them both of which will emerge and change within the unique process of each particular dyad. Specificity theory challenges the traditional method and epistemology of psychoanalysis wherein the understanding of the patient and the therapeutic response are apprehended through rules and prescriptions that are generated through the application of structure theories. The therapeutic engagement must necessarily and continually be monitored and adjusted to fit the specific and changing needs, capacities and limitations of both participants regardless of the therapist's formal working theories. Grounded in the innovative thinking of Sandor Ferenczi and drawing as well from the creative work of Michael Balint, Wilfred Bion, Donald Winnicott, Marion Milner and Heinz Kohut, the perspectives of specificity theory are corroborated by cutting edge findings in contemporary neurobiology and infant research. The Power of Specificity in Psychotherapy challenges psychotherapists to reconsider how treatment is optimally practiced.

The Evolution of a Relational Paradigm in Transactional Analysis Helena Hargaden, William F. Cornell, 2019-09-17 In this fascinating and robust volume the editors have compiled a collection of articles that provides an account of their individual theoretical journeys as they trace the evolution of relational transactional analysis. They re-examine the term relational offering the reader a multiplicity of ways in which to conceptualise the theory of transactional analysis from a truly pluralistic perspective. This collection of 14 stunning articles from the Transactional Analytic Journal written over a period of nearly three decades traces the evolutionary process of a way of thinking that incorporates both theoretical innovations and advanced methodological ideas. Central to the themes of this book is a theoretical understanding of the bidirectionality of the relational unconscious alongside a methodology that not always but most often demands a two-person methodology in which the therapist's subjectivity comes under scrutiny. Uniquely useful as a research tool for psychotherapists interested in the most up-to-date psychological theories, this book offers a perspective on relational theory that is both respectful and critical. It will be of enormously useful to the trainee, the researcher, the clinician and the supervisor and will help inform the development of a clinical dialectical mind.
