Fear in Front of the Screen Maya Götz, Dafna Lemish, Andrea Holler, 2019-01-17. Experiencing fear in front of the screen is a common phenomenon in childhood and a focus of public concern. Yet research has encountered ethical and methodological challenges and has focused largely on the effects of watching disturbing news. In this innovative book, this universal experience is investigated in depth via two complementary studies: 1. a retrospective study of experiences related by 626 undergraduate students from eight countries and 2. a study of the current nightmares induced by watching television of 510 children in five countries. The results presented in this book highlight the most common elements of fear in front of the screen, more generally followed by a focused analysis of the unique features of fear that characterize different developmental stages: pre-school, middle childhood, pre-teens, and teenagers. The rich descriptions distinguish between the negative experiences of fear versus the positive experiences of thrill and explore gender and cultural differences. Finally, the book offers implications for media producers and policy makers as well as for parents and educators.
