Psychopathology At School Theorizing Mental Disorders In Education Theorizing Education:

Psychopathology at School Valerie Harwood, Julie Allan, 2014-03-26 Psychopathology at School provides a timely response to concerns about the rising numbers of children whose behaviour is recognised and understood as a medicalised condition rather than simply as poor behaviour caused by other factors It is the first scholarly analysis of psychopathology which draws on the philosophers Foucault Deleuze Guattari and Arendt to examine the processes whereby children s behaviour is pathologised The heightened attention to mental disorders is contrasted with education practices in the early and mid to late twentieth century and the emergence of a new conceptualization of childhood is explored Taking education as a central component to the contemporary experience of growing up the book charts the ways in which mental disorders have become commonplace in childhood and youth from birth through to college and university but also offers examples of where professionals have refused to pathologise children s behaviour The book examines the extent of the influence of psychopathology on the lives of children and young people as well as the practices that infiltrate education and the possibilities for alternative educational responses that negate the diagnosis of mental disorder Psychopathology at School is a must read for anyone concerned about the growing influence of psychopathology in education and will be of particular interest to educated readers and to scholars students and professionals in education psychiatry psychology child studies youth studies nursing social work and sociology

Curriculum Theorizing and Teacher Education Anne M Phelan, 2015-02-11 If teacher education as a field of study is to contribute to the revitalization re moralization and re politicization of Education this book argues that it needs to be alert to questions of teachers intellectual and political freedom and to concerns about the legitimacy of what we do in teacher education in the name of Education Anne Phelan demonstrates how curriculum theorizing can serve such an educational project by engaging concerns about subjectivity human agency and action society and historical moment thereby widening the field of insight in teacher education and informing debates about new trajectories for policy and practice Exploring teacher education through ethical political aesthetic vocabularies drawn from the Humanities is vital at a time when the dehumanizing influences of performativity standardization and accountability are evident in education systems across the world and when we are in danger of losing the things that we most value and are the least measurable relationships independent thought and ethical judgment Curriculum Theorizing and Teacher Education will be of interest to teacher educators who are practicing researching or re designing teacher education as well as policy makers who are curious about new possibilities for framing the problem of teacher education at provincial state and federal levels

On the Politics of Educational Theory Tomasz Szkuclarek, 2016-11-03 On the Politics of Educational Theory considers the political significance of educational theory as a specific genre of public discourse Rather than understanding educational theories solely as addressing issues of childrearing and instruction this book aims to view educational theories in a broader socio political context It explores the role of educational theories in the construction of collective and political identities and analyses them as rhetorical strategies operating as political discourses. Defining the methodological framework through the perspectives of Michel Foucault and Ernesto Laclau, each chapter examines the ways in which theories of education contribute to the creation of social realities and identities. Such issues as the construction of visibility and invisibility of power, the tropes of temporality or the use of postulational language where theorists say what should be done in and by education are some of the threads that weave through particular theories from Rousseau to the discourse of education in the knowledge based society analysed as ontological rhetorics constitutive of political identities. This book suggests a direction for a more conscious way of dealing with the political in education. As such it will appeal to researchers, academics and postgraduate students in the fields of educational research, philosophy of education, curriculum studies, social and political theory and theory of education. Filmed School James Stillwaggon, David Jelinek, 2016-05-12. Filmed School examines the place that teaching holds in the public imaginary through its portrayal in cinema. From early films such as Mädchen in Uniform and La Maternelle to contemporary images of teaching in Notes on a Scandal and The History Boys, teachers' roles in film have been consistently contradictory, portraying teachers as both seducers and selfless heroes, social outcasts and moral models, contributing to a similarly divided popular understanding of teachers as both salvific and sinister. In this book, Stillwaggon and Jelinek present these contradictory images of teaching through the concept of transference, the fantastical belief in another's knowing that founds a teacher's authority in relation to her students and to some degree the public at large. Tracing the place of transference across a century of school films, each chapter demonstrates the persistence of this fantasy in one of the dreams or nightmares of teaching that recurs thematically in school films: the teacher as savior, seducer, signifier in a moribund discourse and sacrificial object. Through these analyses, the authors suggest that something might be missing in our attempts to theorize education when we leave our unthought fantasies of teaching out of the picture. This book will be of key interest to academics, researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of educational theory, teacher education, philosophy of education, film and media studies, psychoanalysis, sociology of education, curriculum studies and cultural studies.

Time and the Rhythms of Emancipatory Education Michel Alhadeff-Jones, 2016-10-26. Time and the Rhythms of Emancipatory Education argues that by rethinking the way we relate to time, we can fundamentally rethink the way we conceive education. Beyond the contemporary rhetoric of acceleration, speed, urgency or slowness, this book provides an epistemological, historical and theoretical framework that will serve as a comprehensive resource for critical reflection on the relationship between the experience of time and emancipatory education. Drawing upon time and rhythm studies, complexity theories and educational research, Alhadeff-Jones reflects upon the temporal and rhythmic dimensions of education in order to re-theorize and address current societal and educational challenges. The book is divided into three parts. The first begins by discussing the specificities inherent to the study of time in educational sciences The second contextualizes the evolution of temporal constraints that determine the ways education is institutionalized organized and experienced The third and final part questions the meanings of emancipatory education in a context of temporal alienation This is the first book to provide a broad overview of European and North American theories that inform both the ideas of time and rhythm in educational sciences from school instruction curriculum design and arts education to vocational training lifelong learning and educational policies It will be of key interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of philosophy of education sociology of education history of education psychology curriculum and learning theory and adult education The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Reclaiming Education in the Age of PISA Vasco d'Agnese, 2017-08-23 Reclaiming Education in the Age of PISA provides a critical analysis of the OECD's educational agenda and its main tool namely PISA Programme for International Student Assessment Based on an analysis of the OECD's public documents including publications webpages and videos d'Agnese argues that PISA is not just an assessment tool but rather an all encompassing framework that intends to govern education schooling living and society worldwide This creation of what d'Agnese calls a life brand raises concerns that education and learning are becoming wares and that consequently we run the risk of transforming schools into providers and teachers into agents of preconceived learning packages In pursuing only one concept of education and a very narrow one at that d'Agnese argues that OECD not only narrows down education to a mere reproductive process but that such an approach also erases the basic rules by which living develops and evolves In this sense PISA is but another form of authoritarian teaching authoritarian teaching being understood as any and every educational project which sets aims and purposes of education without giving the possibility to discuss and challenge such aims and purposes Reclaiming Education in the Age of PISA suggests a different educational logic emphasizing that schooling is not just a place to produce the correct skills but is also a matter of experimentation hesitation and wait one in which teachers and students attempt to dwell in pure potentiality for growth Providing a strong argument that a different way to conceive of schooling deserves our attention this book will be essential reading for academics researchers and postgraduates in the fields of educational philosophy and theory inclusive education and social justice It should also be of interest to policymakers and educational activists Social
