Reproductive Donation Practice Policy And Bioethics:

Reproductive Donation Martin Richards, Guido Pennings, John B. Appleby, 2012-07-05 This book combines empirical research with commentary on ethics policy and legislation raising provocative questions about reproductive donation and surrogacy

Regulating Reproductive Donation Susan Golombok, 2016-04 Brings together different disciplinary perspectives and new empirical insights to explore the regulation of assisted reproduction around the world

The Oxford Handbook of Reproductive Ethics Leslie Francis, 2016-12-28 Intimate and medicalized natural and technological reproduction poses some of the most challenging ethical dilemmas of our time Reproduction presses the boundaries of humanity and ethical respect the permissible limits of technology conscientious objection by health care professionals and social justice This volume brings together scholars from multiple perspectives to address both traditional and novel questions about the rights and responsibilities of human reproducers their caregivers and the societies in which they live Among issues treated in the volume are what it is to be a parent the responsibilities of parents and the role of society in facilitating or discouraging parenting May gamete donors be anonymous Is surrogacy in which a woman gestates a child for others ethically permissible when efforts are made to prevent coercion or exploitation Should it be mandatory to screen newborns for potentially serious conditions or permissible to sequence their genomes Are both parties to a reproductive act equally responsible to support the child even if one deceived the other Are there ethical asymmetries between male and female parents and is the lack of available contraceptives for men unjust Should the costs of infertility treatment be socially shared as they are for other forms of health care Do parents have a duty to try to conceive children under the best circumstances they can or to avoid conception if the child will suffer What is the status of the fetus and what ethical limits constrain the use of fetal tissue Reproduction is a rapidly changing medical field with novel developments such as mitochondrial transfer or uterine transplantation occurring regularly And there are emerging natural challenges too with Zika virus just the latest The volume gives readers tools not only to address the problems we now know but ones that may emerge in the future as well

Environmental Ethics and Medical Reproduction Cristina Richie, 2024 In Environmental Ethics and Medical Reproduction Dr Cristina Richie uses the term medicalized reproduction MR to describe the impact of technology on human reproduction including from pre conception gamete retrieval in vitro fertilization IVF and birthing suites Unlike other areas of high carbon health care such as organ transplantation or chemotherapy medicalized reproduction does not treat cure or prevent disease It is supported by an economized medical industry and as such is open for ethical scrutiny This book considers how technology has fundamentally changed the discussion on biomedical ethics environmental ethics and reproductive ethics

Relatedness in Assisted Reproduction Tabitha Freeman, Susanna Graham, Fatemeh Ebtehaj, Martin Richards, 2014-08-14 Assisted reproduction challenges and reinforces traditional understandings of family kinship and identity Sperm egg and embryo donation and surrogacy raise questions about relatedness for parents children and others involved in creating and raising a child How socially morally or psychologically significant is a genetic link between a donor conceived child and their donor What should children born through assisted reproduction be told about their origins Does it matter if a parent is genetically unrelated to their child How do experiences differ for men and women using collaborative reproduction in heterosexual or same sex couples single parent families or co parenting arrangements What impact does the wider cultural socio legal and regulatory context have In this multidisciplinary book an international team of academics and clinicians bring together new empirical research and social science legal and bioethical perspectives to explore the key issue of relatedness in assisted reproduction The Wiley Blackwell Companion to the Sociology of Families Judith Treas, Jacqueline

Scott, Martin Richards, 2017-08-14 Written by an international team of experts this comprehensive volume investigates modern day family relationships partnering and parenting set against a backdrop of rapid social economic cultural and technological change Covers a broad range of topics including social inequality parenting practices children s work changing patterns of citizenship multi cultural families and changes in welfare state protection for families Includes many European North American and Asian examples written by a team of experts from across five continents Features coverage of previously neglected groups including immigrant and transnational families as well as families of gays and lesbians Demonstrates how studying social change in families is fundamental for understanding the transformations in individual and social life across the globe Extensively reworked from the original Companion published over a decade ago three quarters of the material is completely new and the remainder has been comprehensively updated Bioethics Stephen Holland, 2016-12-27 This book provides a clear and comprehensive introduction to contemporary bioethics It also presents provocative philosophically informed arguments on current bioethical issues Holland engages with debates ranging from the more familiar such as euthanasia advance decisions to refuse treatment and new reproductive technologies to the philosophical implications of recent developments in genetics including prenatal genetic therapy genetic enhancement and human cloning The book is built around four crucial themes The first is moral status what are the implications of the moral status of human embryos or animals for our biomedical practices The second theme life death and killing looks at the ethics of ending or failing to lengthen human life Holland then explores various questions of personal identity raised in contemporary bioethical debates Finally he presents and develops a version of the argument from nature which continues to be influential in bioethics in order to make sense of the objection that some biomedical innovations are unnatural Structuring the discussions in this way creates an engaging introduction to bioethics that is an ideal textbook for students whilst offering much to stimulate colleagues in the field This second edition has been thoroughly and comprehensively updated to reflect the most recent advances in bioethics and includes an entirely new chapter on the ethical treatment of patients in the minimally conscious state Family-making Françoise Baylis, Carolyn McLeod, 2014 This volume explores the ethics of making or expanding families through adoption or technologically assisted reproduction For many people these methods are separate and distinct

they can choose either adoption or assisted reproduction But for others these options blend together For example in some jurisdictions the path of assisted reproduction for same sex couples is complicated by the need for the partner who is not genetically related to the resulting child to adopt this child if she wants to become the child s legal parent The essays in this volume critically examine moral choices to pursue adoption assisted reproduction or both and highlight the social norms that can distort decision making Among these norms are those that favour people having biologically related children bionormativity or that privilege a traditional understanding of family as a heterosexual unit with one or more children where both parents are the genetic biological legal and social parents of these children As a whole the book looks at how adoption and assisted reproduction are morally distinct from one another but also emphasizes how the two are morally similar Choosing one the other or both of these approaches to family making can be complex in some respects but ought to be simple in others provided that one s main goal is to become a parent
