Rethinking Aging Nortin M. Hadler, 2011 Over the past decade Hadler has established himself as a leading voice among those who approach the menu of health care choices with informed skepticism Only the rigorous demonstration of efficacy is adequate reassurance of a treatment's value he argues if it cannot be shown that a particular treatment will benefit the patient one should proceed with caution In Rethinking Aging Hadler offers a doctor's perspective on the medical literature as well as his long clinical experience to help readers assess their health care options and make informed medical choices in the last decades of life

Rethinking Aging Nortin M. Hadler, M.D., 2011-09-12 For those fortunate enough to reside in the developed world death before reaching a ripe old age is a tragedy not a fact of life Although aging and dying are not diseases older Americans are subject to the most egregious marketing in the name of successful aging and long life as if both are commodities In Rethinking Aging Nortin M Hadler examines health care choices offered to aging Americans and argues that too often the choices serve to profit the provider rather than benefit the recipient leading to the medicalization of everyday ailments and blatant overtreatment Rethinking Aging forewarns and arms readers with evidence based insights that facilitate health promoting decision making Over the past decades Hadler has established himself as a leading voice among those who approach the menu of health care choices with informed skepticism Only the rigorous demonstration of efficacy is adequate reassurance of a treatment's value he argues if it cannot be shown that a particular treatment will benefit the patient one should proceed with caution In Rethinking Aging Hadler offers a doctor's perspective on the medical literature as well as his long clinical experience to help readers assess their health care options and make informed medical choices in the last decades of life The challenges of aging and dying he eloquently assures us can be faced with sophistication confidence and grace

Loving Later Life Frits de Lange, 2015-04-27 Is loving later life possible In our youth obsessed culture nobody enjoys growing old We normally fear our own aging and generally do not love old people they remind us that death is inescapable the body frail and social status transitory In Loving Later Life Frits de Lange shows how an ethics of love can acknowledge and overcome this fear of aging and change our attitude toward the elderly De Lange reframes the biblical love command this way We must care for the aging other as we care for our own aging selves We can encourage positive self love by embracing life as we age taking good care of our own aging bodies staying good friends with ourselves and valuing the last season of life When we cultivate this kind of self love we are released from our aversion to growing old and set free to care about others who are aging our parents our relatives and others in their final season of life

Ageism and Person-Centred Care Stephen Buetow, 2024-10-14 This thought provoking book exposes the values judgements and hierarchies that underlie ageism in care settings Destabilizing the assumption that biases like ageism are always bad Buetow suggests that ageism is normatively neutral and that truly person centred care requires situated acknowledgement of and responsiveness to its negative and positive aspects Buetow contends that respecting meaningful age differences between persons as moral agents puts ageism on the radar of care environments weakening barriers to engagement His analysis moves from concern for age friendliness to prudent ageism that enables person centred care to apply practical wisdom in everyday age sensitive judgement and decision making Challenging political correctness and advocating for justice rather than social justice Buetow discusses how prudent ageism may advantage some age groups over others in particular circumstances while providing a moral structure for managing real rather than socially constructed differences Looking at how age sensitive judgments combined with a person first approach can inform research policy and practice this book will interest students and researchers from fields like health and social care and disciplines such as sociology psychology politics and philosophy

Worried Sick Nortin M. Hadler, M.D., 2012-02-01 Nortin Hadler's clearly reasoned argument surmounts the cacophony of the health care debate Hadler urges everyone to ask health care providers how likely it is that proposed treatments will afford meaningful benefits and he teaches how to actively listen to the answer Each chapter of Worried Sick is an object lesson on the uses and abuses of common offerings from screening tests to medical and surgical interventions By learning to distinguish good medical advice from persuasive medical marketing consumers can make better decisions about their personal health care and use that wisdom to inform their perspectives on health policy issues Sod Seventy!: The Guide to Living Well Muir
