Geospatial Technology and the Role of Location in Science Henk J. Scholten,Rob Velde,Niels van Manen,2009-07-06 Globalisation has not led to the death of geography Intensified relations between communities in different parts of the world have only highlighted the need for understanding and managing phenomena on a variety of geographic scales From global warming to credit crunch and from epidemics to terrorism causes and solutions are sought on local regional national as well as inter continental levels With the advent of Geospatial Technology scholars policymakers and entrepreneurs have valuable tools in hand to proceed This book offers the first systematic account of the science behind this mental and technological revolution Tracing the adoption and dissemination of Geospatial Technology in a range of disciplines it examines the impact

this technology has had and is likely to have on the explanation of spatial behaviour phenomena and processes At the same time stressing innovative usage it explores scientific contributions to technology advancement

Transport Models in Urban Planning Practices

Marco te Brömmelstroet, Luca Bertolini, 2016-04-08 This book explores how transportation models can play a role in a changing transport planning and policy making context Most models are rooted in decades of development work and are geared to offer value free academic and explicit knowledge to transport planning experts However planning practice has changed dramatically over the years resulting in a less technical rational view on the use of such knowledge especially so in early strategy making phases More and more complex policy goals integration of a wide area of other policy domains a wider ever changing and much more mixed group of planning participants and much more focus on wicked problems The book maps how this influences the effectiveness of transport modelling exercises and explores several state of the art implementations This book was published as a special issue of Transport Reviews

Spatial Interaction Models with Land Use Paulo Silveira, Tomaz Ponce Dentinho, 2024-04-25 This book develops spatial interaction models for the analysis of human interaction within space in terms of both accessibility and land use Presenting case studies on the Azores and Morocco it covers applications in various regions of Europe and Africa The respective models simulate land use employment households commuting and shopping movements and land values employment distribution for basic activities changes in accessibility and changes in land suitability due to climate change This book will appeal to scholars and students of regional and spatial science ecological economics and agricultural economics as well as to spatial planners and practitioners dealing with issues of spatial planning to address such problems as unsustainable land use adaptation to climate change desertification of rural areas heavily dependent on land use and the impacts of external shocks on land and property values
