Zaaroura,2019-05-14 Reducing Urban Violence in the Global South seeks to identify the drivers of urban violence in the cities of the Global South and how they relate to and interact with poverty and inequalities Drawing on the findings of an ambitious 5 year 15 project research programme supported by Canada's International Development Research Centre and the UK's Department for International Development the book explores what works and what doesn't to prevent and reduce violence in urban centres Cities in developing countries are often seen as key drivers of economic growth but they are often also the sites of extreme violence poverty and inequality The research in this book was developed and conducted by researchers from the Global South who work and live in the countries studied it challenges many of the assumptions from the Global North about how poverty violence and inequalities interact in urban spaces In so doing the book demonstrates that accepted understandings of the causes of and solutions to urban violence developed in the Global North should not be imported into the Global South without careful consideration of local dynamics and contexts Reducing Urban Violence in the Global South concludes by considering the broader implications for policy and practice offering recommendations for improving interventions to make cities safer and more inclusive The fresh perspectives and insights offered by this book will be useful to scholars and students of development and urban violence as well as to practitioners and policymakers working on urban violence reduction programmes
