No Place for Children Steve Liss, 2005-06-01 This work of photojournalism goes inside the system to offer an intimate often disturbing view of children's experiences in juvenile detention Steve Liss photographed and interviewed young detainees their parents and detention and probation officers in Laredo Texas His photographs reveal that these are vulnerable children sometimes as young as ten coping with a detention environment that most adults would find harsh In the accompanying text he brings in the voices of the young people who describe their already fractured lives and fragile dreams as well as the words of their parents and juvenile justice workers who express frustration at not having more resources with which to help these kids BOOK JACKET

No Place to Go Gary B. Melton, Phillip M. Lyons, Willis J. Spaulding, 1998-01-01 A generation ago the Joint Commission on the Mental Health of Children concluded that there is not a single community in this country which provides an acceptable standard of services for its mentally ill children Since then many states have acknowledged the need to develop a system of care for such children yet few adequate solutions have been implemented Parents and other decision makers often face two unsatisfactory choices coping as well as they can by themselves or turning the child over to someone else This book surveys issues related to the care and civil commitment of children with emotional disturbance The authors examine research on the residential treatment system for children and youths then analyze the prevailing legal framework for the commitment of minors to such treatment They systematically address the question of what child mental health policy should be and conclude by proposing a policy that emphasizes privacy autonomy and family integrity No Place to Go is both a major scholarly statement on the treatment of children with emotional disturbance and a rallying cry for principled change Gary B Melton is the director of the Institute for Families in Society and a professor of neuropsychiatry and behavioral science and adjunct professor of law pediatrics and psychology at the University of South Carolina Phillip M Lyons Jr is an assistant professor at the College of Criminal Justice Sam Houston State University Willis J Spaulding is an attorney in Charlottesville Virginia

No Place to Call Home United States. Congress. House. Select Committee on Children, Youth, and Families, 1989 Abstract This publication reports the conclusions of a series of hearing concerning support and services for children in troubled families The Congress has made a commitment to guarantee support in the form of out of home placement when necessary and reunification with their families when possible This report sought to answer several questions including are there fewer unnecessary placements of children out of their homes than previously occurred When children must be placed are there more effective permanent placements than there were ten years ago Are children receiving quality services when they are entrusted to the child welfare system Several failings of the system are revealed while some promising policies innovative strategies and effective programs were found

Place/No-Place in Urban Asian Religiosity Joanne Punzo Waghorne, 2016-07-15 This book discusses Asia's rapid pace of urbanization with a particular focus on new spaces created by and for everyday religiosity The essays in this volume covering topics from the global metropolises of Singapore Bangalore Seoul Beijing and Hong Kong to the regional centers of Gwalior Pune Jahazpur and sites like Wudang Mountain examine in detail the spaces created by new or changing religious organizations that range in scope from neighborhood based to consciously global The definition of spatial aspects includes direct place making projects such as the construction of new religious buildings temples halls and other meeting sites as well as less tangible religious endeavors such as the production of new mental spaces urged by spiritual leaders or the shift from terra firma to the strangely concrete effervesce of cyberspace With this in mind it explores how distinct and blurred and open and bounded communities generate and participate in diverse practices as they deliberately engage or disengage with physical landscapes cityscapes It highlights how through these religious organizations changing class and gender configurations ongoing political and economic transformations continue as significant factors shaping and affecting Asian urban lives In addition the book goes further by exploring new and often bittersweet improvements like metro rail lines new national highways widespread internet access that bulldoze both literally and figuratively religious places and force relocations and adjustments that are often innovative and unexpected Furthermore this volume explores personal experiences within the particularities of selected religious organizations and the ways that subjects interpret or actively construct urban spaces The essays show through ethnographically and historically grounded case studies the variety of ways newly emerging religious communities or religious institutions understand value interact with or strive to ignore extreme urbanization and rapidly changing built environments

Congress. House. Committee on Ways and Means. Subcommittee on Public Assistance and Unemployment Compensation,1982 No Place for Truth David F. Wells,1994-12-20 Has something indeed happened to evangelical theology and to evangelical churches According to David Wells the evidence indicates that evangelical pastors have abandoned their traditional role as ministers of the Word to become therapists and managers of the small enterprises we call churches Along with their parishioners they have abandoned genuine Christianity and biblical truth in favor of the sort of inner directed experiential religion that now pervades Western society Specifically Wells explores the wholesale disappearance of theology in the church the academy and modern culture Western culture as a whole argues Wells has been transformed by modernity and the church has simply gone with the flow The new environment in which we live with its huge cities triumphant capitalism invasive technology and pervasive amusements has vanquished and homogenized the entire world While the modern world has produced astonishing abundance it has also taken a toll on the human spirit emptying it of enduring meaning and morality Seeking respite from the acids of modernity people today have increasingly turned to religions and therapies centered on the self And whether consciously or not evangelicals have taken the same path refashioning their faith into a religion of the self They have been coopted by modernity have sold their soul for a mess of pottage According to Wells they have lost the truth that God stands outside all human experience that he still summons sinners to repentance and belief regardless of their self image and that he calls his church to stand fast in his truth against the blandishments of a godless world The first of three volumes meant to encourage renewal in evangelical theology the other two to be written by Cornelius Plantinga Jr and Mark Noll No Place for Truth is a contemporary jeremiad a clarion call to all evangelicals to note well what a pass they have come to in capitulating to modernity what a risk they are running by abandoning historic orthodoxy It is provocative reading for scholars ministers seminary students and all theologically concerned individuals
