Nineteen Impressions, by J.D. Beresford John Davys Beresford,1918 Nineteen Impressions John Davys Beresford,1969 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 In books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy Nineteen Impressions. by J. D. Beresford,2018-01-22 John Davys Beresford 17 March 1873 1 February 1947 was an English writer now remembered for his early science fiction and some short stories in the horror story and ghost story genres Beresford was a great admirer of H G Wells and wrote the first critical study of Wells in 1915 His Wellsian novel The Hampdenshire Wonder was a major influence on Olaf Stapledon His other science fiction novels include The Riddle of the Tower about a dystopian hive like society His father was a clergyman in Castor now in Cambridgeshire near Peterborough J D Beresford was affected by infantile paralysis which left him partially disabled He was educated at Oundle After training to become an architect he became a professional writer first as a dramatist and journalist In early adulthood he broke away from his father s views and became a determined but defensive agnostic He combined a prominent place in Edwardian literary London with time spent in the provinces in particular Cornwall where D H Lawrence had an extended stay in his Porthcothan cottage Later in life Beresford abandoned his earlier agnosticism and described himself as a Theosophist and a pacifist Beresford was also interested in psychology and attended several meetings organised by A R Orage to discuss psychological issues Other attendees at these meetings included Havelock Ellis Clifford Sharp David Eder and Maurice Nicoll Beresford also contributed to numerous publications in addition to being a book reviewer for The Manchester Guardian he also wrote for the New Statesman The Spectator Westminster Gazette and the Theosophist magazine The Aryan Path At one point Beresford was offered the editorship of the pacifist magazine Peace News but declined because he felt he would be a bad editor Beresford s interest in the spiritual and philosophical may be best illustrated by the publisher notes to his novel On A Huge Hill Mr Beresford s readers have long known that that for him there are more things in heaven or earth than are dreamt of in official medical philosophy He has used his novelist s skill to convince the sensitive reader that the age of miracles is not over and that in certain circumstances the spirit may exercise what seem to us miraculous powers over the substance of the body This he did in The Camberwell Miracle and Peckover and in this absorbing novel he returns to the theme with the study of a man fitting himself to become a great healer Supplement, 1953 Isabel S.
