Proven Successes In Agricultural Development Proven Successes In Agricultural Development:

Proven Successes in Agricultural Development David J. Spielman, Rajul Pandya-Lorch, 2010-01-01 The world has made enormous progress in the past 50 years toward eliminating hunger and malnutrition While in 1960 roughly 30 percent of the world's population suffered from hunger and malnutrition today less than 20 percent do some five billion people now have enough food to live healthy productive lives Agricultural development has contributed significantly to these gains by increasing food supplies reducing food prices and creating new income and employment opportunities for some of the world's poorest people This book examines where why and how past interventions in agricultural development have succeeded It carefully reviews the policies programs and investments in agricultural development that have reduced hunger and poverty across Africa Asia and Latin America over the past half century The 19 successes included here are described in in depth case studies that synthesize the evidence on the intervention's impact on agricultural productivity and food security evaluate the rigor with which the evidence was collected and assess the tradeoffs inherent in each success Together these chapters provide evidence of what works in agricultural development

Millions Fed David J. Spielman, Rajul Pandya-Lorch, 2009 Humanity has made enormous progress in the past 50 years toward eliminating hunger and malnutrition Some five billion people more than 80 percent of the world's population have enough food to live healthy productive lives Agricultural development has contributed significantly to these gains while also fostering economic growth and poverty reduction in some of the world's poorest countries

Food Policy for Developing Countries Per Pinstrup-Andersen, Derrill D. Watson II, 2011-09-15 Despite technological advances in agriculture nearly a billion people around the world still suffer from hunger and poor nutrition while a billion are overweight or obese This imbalance highlights the need not only to focus on food production but also to implement successful food policies In this new textbook intended to be used with the three volumes of Case Studies in Food Policy for Developing Countries also from Cornell the 2001 World Food Prize laureate Per Pinstrup Andersen and his colleague Derrill D Watson II analyze international food policies and discuss how such policies can and must address the many complex challenges that lie ahead in view of continued poverty globalization climate change food price volatility natural resource degradation demographic and dietary transitions and increasing interests in local and organic food production Food Policy for Developing Countries offers a social entrepreneurship approach to food policy analysis Calling on a wide variety of disciplines including economics nutrition sociology anthropology environmental science medicine and geography the authors show how all elements in the food system function together

The Quiet Revolution in Staple Food Value Chains Asian Development Bank, 2012-12-01 Major changes have been occurring almost unnoticed in staple value chains in Asia The Quiet Revolution in Staple Food Value Chains documents and explains the transformation of value chains moving rice and potatoes between the farm gate and the consumer in Bangladesh the People's Republic of China and India The changes noted are the rapid rise of supermarkets modern cold storage facilities large rice mills and commercialized small farmers using input intensive mechanized technologies These changes affect food security in ways that are highly relevant for policymakers across Asia the rise of supermarkets provides cheaper staples more direct relations in the chains combined with branding have increased traceability and the rise of cold storage has brought higher incomes for potato farmers and all season access for potato consumers The book also joins two debates that have long been separate and parallel food industry and agribusiness development and market competitiveness with the food security and poverty alleviation agenda

Highlights of recent IFPRI food policy research in Ethiopia 2014 International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI), Food Security and Global Environmental Change John Ingram, Polly Ericksen, Diana

Liverman, 2012-07-26 Global environmental change GEC represents an immediate and unprecedented threat to the food security of hundreds of millions of people especially those who depend on small scale agriculture for their livelihoods As this book shows at the same time agriculture and related activities also contribute to GEC by for example intensifying greenhouse gas emissions and altering the land surface Responses aimed at adapting to GEC may have negative consequences for food security just as measures taken to increase food security may exacerbate GEC The authors show that this complex and dynamic relationship between GEC and food security is also influenced by additional factors food systems are heavily influenced by socioeconomic conditions which in turn are affected by multiple processes such as macro level economic policies political conflicts and other important drivers The book provides a major accessible synthesis of the current state of knowledge and thinking on the relationships between GEC and food security Most other books addressing the subject concentrate on the links between climate change and agricultural production and do not extend to an analysis of the wider food system which underpins food security this book addresses the broader issues based on a novel food system concept and stressing the need for actions at a regional rather than just an international or local level It reviews new thinking which has emerged over the last decade analyses research methods for stakeholder engagement and for undertaking studies at the regional level and looks forward by reviewing a number of emerging hot topics in the food security GEC debate which help set new agendas for the research community at large Published with Earth System Science Partnership GECAFS and SCOPE

In Pursuit of an African Green Revolution Keijiro Otsuka, Donald F. Larson, 2015-11-24 This book explores recent experiences in the effort to bring about a Green Revolution in Sub Saharan Africa SSA The chapters focus on rice and maize which are promising and strategic smallholder crops Significantly we find that an African Rice Revolution has already begun in many irrigated areas using Asian type modern varieties chemical fertilizer and improved management practices Further we find that the same technological package significantly increases the productivity and profitability of rice farming in rainfed areas as well We also find evidence that that management training when done well can boost productivity on smallholder farms This suggests that African governments can accelerate the pace of Africa's Rice Revolution by strengthening extension capacity The story for maize is wholly different where most farmers use local varieties apply little chemical fertilizer and obtain very low yields However in the highly populated highlands of Kenya a number of farmers have adopted high yielding hybrid maize varieties and chemical fertilizer as was the case in the Asian Green Revolution apply manure produced by stall fed cows as was the case during the British Agricultural Revolution and keep improved cows or cross breeds from European cows and local stock as was the case of the Indian White Revolution We conclude that while rice in Africa has benefited from an Asian Green Revolution strategy that emphasizes modern seeds inputs and focused knowledge transfers the success of Africa s Maize Revolution will require a different system approach based on hybrid maize chemical and organic fertilizers and stall fed cross bred cows
