Nightwatch The Politics Of Protest In The Andes:

Nightwatch Orin Starn, 1999-05-24 An innovative ethnography of peasant communities in Peru caught between the government and the Shining Path Nightwatch Orin Starn, 1999-05-24 Organized in the mid 1970s as a means of communal protection against livestock rustling and general thievery in Peru's rugged northern mountains the rondas campesinas peasants who make the rounds grew into an entire system of peasant justice and one of the most significant Andean social movements of the late twentieth century Nightwatch is the first full length ethnography and the only study in English to examine this grassroots agrarian social movement which became a rallying point for rural pride Drawing on fieldwork conducted over the course of a decade Orin Starn chronicles the historical conditions that led to the formation of the rondas the social and geographical expansion of the movement and its gradual decline in the 1990s Throughout this anecdotal yet deeply analytical account the author relies on interviews with ronda participants villagers and Peru's regional and national leaders to explore the role of women the involvement of nongovernmental organizations and struggles for leadership within the rondas Starn moves easily from global to local contexts and from the fifteenth to the twentieth century presenting this movement in a straightforward manner that makes it accessible to both specialists and nonspecialists An engagingly written story of village mobilization Nightwatch is also a meditation on the nature of fieldwork the representation of subaltern people the relationship between resistance and power and what it means to be politically active at the end of the century It will appeal widely to scholars and students of anthropology Latin American studies cultural studies history subaltern studies and those interested in the politics of social movements Highland Indians and the State in Modern

Ecuador A. Kim Clark, Marc Becker, 2007-08-26 Highland Indians and the State in Modern Ecuador chronicles the changing forms of indigenous engagement with the Ecuadorian state since the early nineteenth century that by the beginning of the twenty first century had facilitated the growth of the strongest unified indigenous movement in Latin America Built around nine case studies from nineteenth and twentieth century Ecuador Highland Indians and the State in Modern Ecuador presents state formation as an uneven process characterized by tensions and contradictions in which Indians and other subalterns actively participated It examines how indigenous peoples have attempted sometimes successfully to claim control over state formation in order to improve their relative position in society The book concludes with four comparative essays that place indigenous organizational strategies in highland Ecuador within a larger Latin American historical context Highland Indians and the State in Modern Ecuador offers an interdisciplinary approach to the study of state formation that will be of interest to a broad range of scholars who study how subordinate groups participate in and contest state formation

Resisting Extortion Eduardo Moncada, 2022-01-06 New ethnographic data leads to insights into the widespread yet understudied phenomenon of criminal extortion in Latin America The World of Indigenous North America Robert Warrior, 2014-12-05 The World of Indigenous North America is a comprehensive look at issues that concern indigenous people in North America Though no single volume can cover every tribe and every issue around this fertile area of inquiry this book takes on the fields of law archaeology literature socio linguistics geography sciences and gender studies among others in order to make sense of the Indigenous experience Covering both Canada s First Nations and the Native American tribes of the United States and alluding to the work being done in indigenous studies through the rest of the world the volume reflects the critical mass of scholarship that has developed in Indigenous Studies over the past decade and highlights the best new work that is emerging in the field

Ugly Stories of the Peruvian Agrarian Reform Enrique Mayer, 2009-10-30 Uses oral histories to analyze Peruvian agrarian reform carried out by the left leaning military government of Juan Velasco Alvarado between 1969 and 1999 highlighting struggles to dismantle models of social experimentation after disillusion with the fai

Gender and Culture at the Limit of Rights Dorothy L. Hodgson, 2011-05-17 An interdisciplinary collection Gender and Culture at the Limit of Rights examines the potential and limitations of the women s rights as human rights framework as a strategy for seeking gender justice Drawing on detailed case studies from the United States Africa Latin America Asia and elsewhere contributors to the volume explore the specific social histories political struggles cultural assumptions and gender ideologies that have produced certain rights or reframed long standing debates in the language of rights The essays address the gender specific ways in which rights based protocols have been analyzed deployed and legislated in the past and the present and the implications for women and men adults and children in various social and geographical locations Questions addressed include What are the gendered assumptions and effects of the dominance of rights based discourses for claims to social justice What kinds of opportunities and limitations does such a culture of rights provide to seekers of justice whether individuals or collectives and how are these gendered How and why do female bodies often become the site of contention in contexts pitting cultural against juridical perspectives The contributors speak to central issues in current scholarly and policy debates about gender culture and human rights from comparative disciplinary historical and geographical perspectives By taking gender rather than just women seriously as a category of analysis the chapters suggest that the very sources of the power of human rights discourses specifically women s rights as human rights discourses to produce social change are also the sources of its limitations

Policy Worlds Cris Shore, Susan Wright, Davide Però, 2011-04-01 There are few areas of society today that remain outside the ambit of policy processes and likewise policy making has progressively reached into the structure and fabric of everyday life An instrument of modern government policy and its processes provide an analytical window into systems of governance themselves opening up ways to study power and the construction of regimes of truth This volume argues that policies are not simply coercive constraining or confined to static texts rather they are productive continually contested and able to create new social and semantic spaces and new sets of relations Anthropologists do not stand outside or above systems of governance but are themselves subject to the rhetoric and rationalities of policy The analyses of policy worlds presented by the contributors to this volume open up new possibilities for understanding systems of knowledge and power and the positioning of academics within them Voice and Vote Stephanie McNulty, 2011-05-04 In the months following disgraced ex President Alberto Fujimori s flight to Japan Peru had a political crisis on its hands The newly elected government that came together in mid 2001 faced a skeptical and suspicious public with no magic bullet for achieving legitimacy Many argued that the future of democracy was at stake and that the government s ability to decentralize and incorporate new actors in decision making processes was critical Toward that end the country s political elite devolved power to subnational governments and designed new institutions to encourage broader citizen participation By 2002 Peru s participatory decentralization reform PDR was finalized and the experiment began This book explores the possibilities and limitations of the decision to restructure political systems in a way that promotes participation The analysis also demonstrates the power that political historical and institutional factors can have in the design and outcomes of participatory institutions Using original data from six regions of Peru political scientist Stephanie McNulty documents variation in PDR implementation delves into the factors that explain this variation and points to regional factors as prime determinants in the success or failure of participatory institutions The Woman in the Violence M. Cristina Alcalde, 2010-12-10 Combating abuse and violence in a South American capital
