Doing Time, Writing Lives Patrick W. Berry, 2018 Doing Time Writing Lives offers a much needed analysis of the teaching of college writing in U S prisons a racialized space that despite housing more than 2 2 million people remains nearly invisible to the general public Through the examination of a college in prison program that promotes the belief that higher education in prison can reduce recidivism and improve life prospects for the incarcerated and their families author Patrick W Berry exposes not only incarcerated students hopes and dreams for their futures but also their anxieties about whether education will help them Beginning by exploring the need to move beyond narratives of hope when discussing literacy initiatives within prisons Berry then illustrates how teachers and students frequently hold on to different beliefs about literacy and its power in the world After discussing the possibilities and limitations of professional writing courses in prisons the author argues that we need to pay greater attention to teachers and their motivations in prison education initiatives Finally he offers a case study of one formerly imprisoned student who uses writing in his current life and how this does and does not connect with what he learned in his prison education program Combining case studies and interviews with the author s own personal experiences teaching writing in prison Doing Time Writing Lives chronicles how incarcerated students attempt to write themselves back into a society that has erased their lived histories It challenges polarizing rhetoric often used to describe what literacy can and cannot deliver suggesting more nuanced and ethical ways of understanding literacy and possibility in an age of mass incarceration Reconnecting Reading and Writing Alice S. Horning, Elizabeth W.

Kraemer, 2013-09-06 Reconnecting Reading and Writing explores the ways in which reading can and should have a strong role in the teaching of writing in college Reconnecting Reading and Writing draws on broad perspectives from history and international work to show how and why reading should be reunited with writing in college and high school classrooms It presents an overview of relevant research on reading and how it can best be used to support and enhance writing instruction

Writing Effective Course Assignments Elia

Shabani Mlilo, 2017-05-11 Non degree and undergraduate students are both inexperienced essay writers who need close guidance to become effective writers. One of the puzzles which they encounter at the college and university after reporting for studies is the course assignments offered to them by their lecturers which demand them to be critical thinkers and argumentative essay writers. In most colleges and universities lecturers provide to students broad questions to answer in the form of essays either in group or individual assignments. How should they turn the broad assignment questions provided to them by their lecturers into specific researchable topics for essays? How should they handle literature in order to obtain valuable information to answer the provided question? How should they construct an informed and convincing argument using the collected information as evidence? This book concerns these and other related questions. With its clear illustrations the book is designed to be a self study guide and to offer solutions to many struggling students in colleges and universities. At the same time the book can be helpful for lecturers to instruct their students how to write effective course assignments in their respective courses.
