Digital Technologies in the Lives of Young People Chris Davies, John Coleman, Sonia Livingstone, 2015-10-14 This book examines the presence and effects of new technologies in the lives of young people The rapid pace of change in the development and use of digital technologies and the likely impact this has on youth means that the topic has wide implications for educational institutions theory and practice There is a demand for a concentration on the ways in which new devices such as smart phones and tablets as well as new platforms and recent notions such as the flipped classroom are affecting the way education is being provided However there is also still a small minority who do not have full access to the internet and the disadvantages suffered by this group must also be addressed The internet offers a vast range of opportunities for young people and yet for various reasons it is not always available This can partly be attributed to the controls that schools impose on the use of digital technology for reasons of safety and security and can in part be explained by the fact that policy makers have contradictory attitudes to technology While they may argue for the need to have a well educated and well trained workforce they fear the threats to privacy and safety posed by the internet This book asserts that society needs to have more open debate about the threats and opportunities of digital technology as it is a dynamic and ever changing topic for us all This book was originally published as a special issue of the Oxford Review of Education

Disrupting Higher Education Curriculum Michael Anthony Samuel, Rubby Dhunpath, Nyna Amin, 2017-05-10 Discomfort with the inappropriateness of university curricula has met with increasing calls for disruptive actions to revitalise higher education This book conceived to envision an alternative emancipatory curriculum explores the historical ideological philosophical and theoretical domains of higher education curricula The authors acknowledge that universities have been and continue to be complicit in perpetuating cognitive damage through symbolic violence associated with indifference to the pernicious effects of race categorisation gender inequalities poverty rising unemployment and cultural hegemony as they continue to frame curricula cultures and practices The book contemplates the project of undoing cognitive damage offering glimpses to redesign curriculum in the 21st century The contributors international scholars emergent and expert researchers include different nationalities orientations and positionalities constituting an interdisciplinary ensemble which collectively provides a rich commentary on higher education curriculum as we know it and where we think it could be in the future The edited volume is a catalytic tool for disrupting canonised rituals of practice in higher education It has been a while since a scholarly book so authoritative in its claims and innovative in its concepts threatens to shake up the curriculum field at its foundations Rich in metaphor and meaning the superbly written chapters challenge a field that once more became moribund as we settled so far too comfortably into accepting handed down frames and fictions about knowledge authority power and agency that imprint cognitive damage on those forced to the margins of schools and universities Disrupting Higher Education Curriculum demonstrates however that it is in fact from those margins of the education enterprise that academics teachers and learners can see more clearly how patterns of thought and action hold us back from placing and experiencing our African humanity at the centre of the curriculum Jonathan Jansen Rector and Vice Chancellor of the University of the Free State South Africa

focuses on the role of higher education institutions concerning datafication as a complex phenomenon. It explores how the universities can develop data literacies, shaping tomorrow's skills and formae mentis to face the most deleterious effects of datafication but also to engage in creative and constructive ways with data. Notably, the book spots data practices within the two most relevant sides of academics' professional practice: namely, research and teaching. Hence, the collection seeks to reflect on faculty's professional learning about data infrastructures and practices. The book draws on a range of studies covering the higher education response to the several facets of data in society, from data surveillance and the algorithmic control of human behaviour to empowerment through the use of open data. The research reported ranges from literature overviews to multi-case and in-depth case studies illustrating institutional and educational responses to different problems connected to data. The ultimate intention is to provide conceptual bases and practical examples relating to universities' faculty development policies to overcome data practices and discourses' fragmentation and contradictions in a nutshell, to build fair data cultures in higher education. Pre-Service and In-Service Teacher Education: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications
