Relevance in Mind Tim Wharton, Didier Maillat, Caroline Jagoe, Kate Scott, 2024-02-09 In 1992 shortly after the publication of the first edition of Relevance communication and cognition David Trotter wrote Relevance theory is not only the most elegant version of pragmatics currently available but the most uncompromising in its view that inference cannot be assimilated to a code model of communication It asks questions which literary criticism has never been able to ask let alone answer Thirty years on new questions continue to be asked and answered in linguistic pragmatics cognitive science literary theory as foreseen by Trotter experimental psychology affective science communication studies etc The theory also appears in quite unexpected places recent applications of relevance theory include the analysis of internet mediated discourse clinical practice and even museum curation First and foremost however relevance theory is an inferential model of communication and cognition which is theoretically and empirically testable The approach still has a huge amount of potential in psychology and beyond potential this Research Topic seeks to tap into
